"JACKIE" MCGARRY KILLED IN ACCIDENT FRIDAY

GIRL RESERVE MET DEATH IN FALL FROM CAR

Merry Outing of YWCA
Young People Marred
Tragedy Near North
Warren Friday

DIED IN THE HOSPITAL

Pennsylvania State Police from the local barracks and Deputy Coroner W. E. Lutz have completed their investigation of the tragic accident which occurred on Jackson Run road early Friday afternoon and claimed the life of 14-year-old Jacqueline McGarry, and the latter has issued a certificate of accidental death.

The McGarry girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. McGarry, 111 Mohawk avenue, was one of a party of 14 girls from the Freshman Girls' Club of the YWCA en route for a weekend at Camp Jere. Thrown in some manner when she jumped from the rear bumper of an automobile on which she had hitchhiked a ride, she was taken to Warren General Hospital and died there at 8:20 p. m. of shock, a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

The official investigation has disclosed that the girls were carefully instructed by their leaders Miss Barbara Lesser, Girl Reserve secretary, and Miss Mary Church, general secretary, to leave the bus at North Warren and remain together until they reached the Boy Scout camp. Miss Lesser proceeded to the camp with their supplies and luggage.

Attempting to hitchhike a ride, the girls are said to have formed a chain across the highway and stepped a car driven by Mrs. Carrie McManigle, 191 1/2 South Carver street, who was accompanied by Mrs. Suzanne Cable, Poplar street. Mrs. McManigle states she refused the girls a ride because "there are too many of you" and asked them to get off the car. Thinking they had all obeyed, she continued on her way to Sugar Grove and did not learn of the accident until she heard an appeal made from the driver of the car. She reported directly to the State Police barracks and was questioned there by the officer conducting the investigation.

Questioning of others in the party has revealed that there were two girls riding on the bumper, "Jackie," as she was known to her friends, and Mary Ann Heimann, 110 Parker street, but the latter jumped off when the car moved away. Mrs. Paul Groesch, who lives near the Camp Jere entrance, told State Police she had seen the car and noted the girl sitting on the bumper as it passed by. It is believed that when "Jackie" jumped from the moving vehicle, she slipped or she was thrown in such manner that her head struck the pavement. An ambulance was summoned but when it arrived the girls were told the girl had been taken to the hospital by Dr. J. F. Crane.

Miss Lesser learned of the accident when the remainder of the party rushed into camp and she was there when Dr. Crane arrived and offered the use of her car. She then contacted the church at the YWCA and the latter called the parents of the girls, asking if they should remain at camp or come home. The decision was to remain there overnight, since none could be of assistance at the hospital. Following Miss McGarry's death the parents were again contacted and (Turn to Page Nine)

Russell Soldier Given Greeting As He Debarked at New York

By ED C. LOWREY
Camp Kilmer, N. J., June 18—Pfc. Louis B. Lind, Russell, Rt. 1, was the only Warren man who debarked from the transport General Brooks, Sunday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. Pfc. Lind was among the last hundred of some 5,000 aboard the ship when it was escorted by the bay. Another Warren county man, from Clarendon, was believed to be aboard one of the other ships which docked at another pier but could not be checked.

Shortly after Lind had descended the gangplank and had been checked by embarkation officer, he was greeted by a Times-Mirror reporter with the remark, "Well, I suppose you are anxious to get back to Russell." In another moment he was in line with the other hundreds of heavily burdened members of the 86th di-

Troops Ride Big Trucks In Chicago

Chicago, June 18.—(P)—Chicago's trucking operations, partially crippled by a work stoppage which began last Friday, slowly began resumption today with soldiers accompanying some drivers on their early runs.

The soldiers were called in by the office of Defense Transportation to prevent the work stoppage—the second in less than a month—that has stemmed the flow of food and vital war goods in the midwest.

Early reports indicated that not all trucks were in operation, despite the presence of more than 1,500 soldiers called in at the request of Ellis T. Longnecker, federal manager of the 1,700 government seized lines.

A spokesman for the Chicago Cartage Company—which represents several hundred of the truck lines said "not very many" trucks were operating on the early shift and that "we don't know" what the army has in mind.

Although soldiers were reported by observers riding with some drivers, there were no early reports of army drivers actually taking over drivers' duties. A single soldier was sent with each of the five of the 20 Keeshin Motor Express Company's trucks which made an early morning run.

EISENHOWER SAYS PACE MUST BE WON

Tells Congress Soldiers Feel That Problems Facing the World Must Be Met

PRaise FOR THE DEAD

Washington, June 18.—(P)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower told the nation's lawmakers and jurists today that the soldier "passionately believes x x x the problems of peace can and must be met."

To the soldier's mind, the general declared in an address prepared for his appearance before a joint session of congress and the supreme court, "the problems of peace can be no more difficult than the one you had to solve more than three years ago and which, in one battle area, has now been brought to a successful conclusion."

"He passionately believes that with the same determination, the same optimistic resolution and the same mutual consideration, among allies that marshalled in Europe forces capable of crushing what had been the greatest war machine of history, the problems of peace can and must be met."

Referring to the Pacific war, General Eisenhower said: "Speaking for the American men and women I have been so honored to command x x x in our minds and hearts there is no slightest doubt that our people's spirit if determination, which has buoyed us up and driven us forward in Europe, will continue to fire this nation through the ordeals of battle yet to come. Though we dream of return to our loved one, we are ready, as we have always been, to do our duty to our country. No matter what it may be."

The debarkation started shortly after eight o'clock and was not concluded until 3:30 Sunday afternoon. Through previous releases furnished at the camp, it had been learned that Pfc. Lind was the General Brooks, but that he would be among the last to leave the ship, hence a seven-hour wait to extend the welcome to one of Warren county's two members of the famous 86th "Blackhawk" division.

Heroic Commander Welcomed Home

Maj.-Gen. Harris M. MaLasky, right, of Austin, Tex., commander of the 86th Black Hawk Division of the Third Army, is shown as he was greeted by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson on his arrival in New York. The division is to be furloughed before being redeployed in the Pacific war theatre. Three transports brought 14,000 officers and men from Europe.

An Editorial

It'll Take Only a Minute, Anyhow
Irresponsible citizens who shrug off their voting franchise with the remark, "I haven't got the time," are only trying to establish an alibi—and a weak one, at that.

This is no excuse whatsoever. Shucks, it only takes a minute or two to cast your ballot.

It is true that there may be some difficulty about reaching the polling place in a township district. But there is no good reason why the average qualified voter can't get to his urban polling place in a few minutes, take another minute or two to cast his ballot, then return to home or business without disturbing the temper of his day.

And, after all, why shouldn't he disturb the temper of his routine, if necessary, in order to cast his ballot? What more important privilege does he have as an American citizen than that of choosing his representatives in government?

Farmers May Build Dams in This Locality

Pittsburgh, June 18.—(P)—Pennsylvania's agricultural conservation committee and chairman of meet here today to discuss building of dams in 20 western Pennsylvania counties were to meet here today to discuss building of farm dams or ponds as a means of flood control.

The conference is one of four being held in place of a statewide meeting to conserve water-time travel facilities. John A. Smith, state secretary, said.

Other regional meetings are scheduled at Harrisburg, July 20, Scranton, July 2, and Lock Haven, July 5.

Smith said it is the hope of the state committee that 1,000 farmers will build dams this year and that a greater number will be constructed in the years to come as bulldozers and other military equipment is released.

"In addition to their flood control," Smith said, "these ponds should provide an ample source of water for fire protection."

New selective service regulations, office of price administration and office of defense transportation regulations affecting agriculture, budget procedure and allocation of conservation materials also will be discussed at the meetings, Smith said.

LIGHT VOTE EXPECTED IN PRIMARIES

Warren County Will Go to Polls to Cast Ballots; Few Contests in Offices

WET AND DRY FIGHT

Warren county as well as all of the counties in the state will march to the polls in what is expected to be a listless primary. In this county it is not expected that more than a 35% vote will be cast. There are few contests and they are all in the Republican party. Don Schuler, present commissioner clerk and John Mead, well known citizen are contesting the place on the GOP ticket for Register and Recorder while Harry Johnson, present tax collector is being opposed by Homer Finch. Johnson is serving his second term. In Youngsville the battle for Burgess is rousing interest as Warren Kay and Edward Day battle for the place.

One of the hottest fights is in Tidoute where a wet and dry battle is being waged. Both beer and whiskey are on the ballot and the voters may decide whether or not beer may be sold or whether both may be barred.

Over the state there are several hot battles, 19 cities nominating candidates as mayor; 66 municipalities in 32 counties are voting wet or dry and 38 judges will be elected in various counties.

Poles Give Details Of Sabotage

BY EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, June 18.—(P)—The secretary of the military collegium of the supreme court told the judges today that Maj. Gen. Bronislav Okulucki and 15 other Polish leaders had confessed to a long list of charges including killing 564 Russian officers, anti-Soviet espionage, and conferring with the Germans.

The graying Okulucki, who headed the Polish army of the London Polish government after the surrender of Gen. Tadeusz (Bor) Konorowski, and his fellow defendants heard the charges without emotion. One of the 16 accused Poles was ill and did not attend.

The trials were held in the same blue-walled hall of the labor building where the Trotskyist purge trials were held in 1937. The same judge Vasily V. Ulich, presided.

Okulucki was accused of possessing at the time of his arrest by the Red army a document in which he declared that in the event of a Soviet victory over Germany, England would have to form a western European bloc to combat the Russians. The document was said to assert that Germany and Poland should be in the bloc.

FORTS POUND JAP FACTORY CITIES TODAY

Tons of Bombs Rained on Busy War Plants For Hours—New Program Opens

HUGE FIRES RAGING

By LIEF ERICKSON

Guam, June 18.—(P)—Four of Japan's smaller war industrial cities were set afire today in pre-dawn raids by 450 American Superfortresses which caught the enemy by surprise but met extremely accurate anti-aircraft gunfire over the target.

The cities hit, each one less than 200,000 population, were Kagoshima and Omuta on Kyushu island and Hamamatsu and Yokkaichi on Honshu island. Results at all four were described as excellent.

Japanese communiques, saying the raids lasted from one to more than five hours, claimed fires started in Hamamatsu and Yokkaichi were brought under control nearly four hours after the bombers left and those on Omuta and Kagoshima were "mostly extinguished" a little more than an hour after the all-clear signal.

Don't admitting some damage, additional raiders flying either singly or in small formations roared over the four cities after the (Turn to Page Nine)

FATHER REJOICES AS DAUGHTER TALKS

Smethport, June 18.—(P)—For 45 long minutes, F. J. Quirk thought his daughter had been a victim of the disastrous wreck at Milford, Pa., last week—then he heard her voice on the telephone. Miss Kathleen Quirk, a freshman at Drexel institute, was a passenger on the wrecked train. Her father hurried to Milford when he heard of the crash, and through a window of a smashed coach saw the body of a girl he believed to be that of Kathleen.

"Then they brought over a purse that had been found nearby," said Quirk, and I identified it as Kathleen's. The girl wore a ring similar to my daughter's and that seemed to clinch it."

Then Quirk received a telegram advising that his daughter was back home safely.

YANKS SPLIT JAP ARMY ON OKINAWA TIP

Mikado's Army Dying as Americans Pour Tons of Bombs and Shells On Positions

ONE U. S. VESSEL LOST

By ROBBIN COONS

Guam, June 18.—(P)—The thinning Japanese garrison on southern Okinawa was cut into two segments today, most of the enemy forces were retreating from the Yaeju plateau and those in the rear were hammered by 200 massed American guns.

At least one enemy leader, Adm. Minoru Ota, naval base force commander, killed himself. His body, with throat slit, was found in an elaborate underground command post.

The Japanese, dying at the rate of 1,600 a day, said Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announcing 12,756 had been slain in eight days, swelling to 80,459 the number killed since the invasion began April 1.

The estimated 5,000 to 12,000 Japanese still fighting were falling back behind "last-stand" ridge at the southern edge of the plateau.

Some of them apparently tried to reform near Makabe on the western side of the plateau and everything up to eight-inch Howitzers slammed into them simultaneously.

The Sixth Marine Division, finished mopping up on Oruku Peninsula where Ota's body was found, joined the final battle and it was this outfit that looped off one enemy force.

The marines attacked on the west flank and cut off the Japanese near Mezado, northwest of Makabe and less than three miles from Okinawa's southern tip.

The Japanese made no attempt to break out of the encirclement, apparently resigned to fight and die where they were. More than half of "Hara Kiri Mesa"—the name given to Yaeju Plateau by American troops—was in the hands of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner's U. S. Tenth Army.

The last three important heights, commanding all the less than eight square miles of the island in which the enemy is cornered, were seized over the weekend.

Over the week-end, the Japanese resumed kamikaze air attacks on American shipping in Okinawa waters. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's communique admitted one light unit was sunk Saturday.

American fighters and torpedo bombers hit back with a three-hour attack on the Amami island group, 120 miles north of Okinawa.

Other war planes dumped nearly tons of bombs on the Japanese on Okinawa, seared them with rockets and machinegunned them.

Farm Flocks Egg Output Is At Low Point

Harrisburg, June 18.—(P)—Pennsylvania's farm flocks produced 23,000,000 eggs in May, but less than the previous month and no relief from the current egg shortage can be promised, the state agriculture department reported today.

On the other hand, output of milk in the Keystone state last month reached the highest peak ever known.

Agriculture officials attributed the drop in egg production to a seasonal decline and continuing consumer demands for poultry meat.

The department's federal-state crop reporting service said the number of layers on Pennsylvania farms in May was 13,870,000, or 988,000 fewer than April, and 2,814,000 below the 1944 all-time record for the month.

Egg production in the state for the first five months of this year was 12 per cent below that for the corresponding 1944 period, the agency added.

The all-time milk record was set, the department reported when 940,000 cows turned out 540,000,000 pounds of milk.

"It is encouraging to know that May production was 15 per cent above that of April compared to an advance of six per cent for the nation," said Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture.

Urge Navigation Be Given Industry Along River Route

Meeting Held in Warren Saturday Attended By Leaders of Life Along Entire Stream—Series of Small Flood Control Dams Favored

SOME ENJOYABLE FEATURES MARK GATHERING

The highly successful annual meeting of the Allegheny River Improvement Association, held at the Warren County Court House, Warren, Pa., Saturday afternoon, June 16th, proved a fitting culmination of retiring president Jos. Riesenman, Jr.'s ten years at the helm of this important body. Harold C. Putnam of Warren, long time river enthusiast, was chosen as the new president. The meeting was declared by George A. Zerr, veteran river editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and others to be the best attended and most fruitful meeting of many years. A galaxy of river notables, government, state and city officials and civic leaders from Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, and New York State were drawn to Warren for this meeting by the widespread interest in the important objectives of the Association, chief of which is the completion of improvement of the Allegheny for navigation to Olean, N. Y., ultimately connecting with New York State's inland waterways system, to complete the last great undeveloped link which will join the inland waterways of the east with the entire Mississippi system, with continuous transportation from the Gulf of Mexico through the Eastern Seaboard. Because of travel restrictions no effort was made to attract a large attendance, but representative delegations were present from Allegheny, Red House, Quaker Ridge, Olean and Salamanca in N. Y. State; and in Pennsylvania, Coudersport, Bradford, Corydon, Kinzua, Warren, Irvine, Youngsville, Tidoute, Tionesta, Oil City, Franklin, Tarentum, Eminton, New Kensington, Pittsburgh, and McKeesport. A picturesque climax to the crowded eventing day, took place in the late evening when Captain Frederick W. Jr. of Sewickley, famed river pilot and author, and Mr. Harry A. Logan, Warren, Pa., head of the United Refining Company, presided.

OPA FACING NEW LEASE OF LIFE WOBBLES

Banking Committee of the House Votes Today on Extension of Price Control Plans

CHANGES ARE URGED

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY
Washington, June 18.—(P)—OPA's future swung in the balance today as the house banking committee met for determining votes on how long and in what form wartime price controls shall be continued.

There is no doubt that the OPA act, expiring June 30, will be given a new lease on life, but congress confronts these questions:

1. Shall the extension be for six months or a year? Republicans prepared an amendment to hold the continuance to six months. Fred M. Vinson, War Mobilization Director, said this would be "tragic."

2. Will the senate-approved cost-plus pricing system for farm products, sponsored by Senator Wherry (R-Neb.), stay in the bill? Three major farm organizations—the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the Farmers Union—have asked that it be deleted.

3. Should congress, by amending the law, direct OPA to allow higher prices to encourage larger output of consumer goods?

Chairman Spencer (D-Ky.) voiced confidence the banking committee will approve a straight one-year extension of the price law, without what he termed "crippling amendments."

Various segments of business and industry, in long hearings before the committee which closed Saturday, urged literally scores of changes in the law. Among these was a proposal to allow an increase in rent ceilings.

The big right probably will hinge on the Republican proposal to permit only a six months extension.

"Ike" Given Big Ovation By Thousands In Washington

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington, June 18.—(P)—Tenshuns: Here comes General Eisenhower. Back to tell his commander-in-chief and a grateful nation how his armies beat the Nazis.

Back to learn what he should do in his new job as proconsul in Germany.

The national capital is the first stop for the general and his party of 53 GIs and officers, winging in from the Atlantic in four giant transport planes. Their arrival was scheduled at about 11 a. m. (EWT).

This is the first time since Eisenhower since pre-European invasion days. It will give him an opportunity to make a personal report to President Truman of the Allies' victorious campaign and of the days that have followed.

It will provide, also, a chance for the president to discuss with him intimate phases of American policy in the four-power military rule of postwar Germany. The supreme commander of western Allied forces now is chief of the United States control group. The capital made elaborate plans to greet Eisenhower in ceremonies befitting a victor. The welcome was projected 50 miles out of Washington where a big flight of P-47 Thunderbolt fighters flew to rendezvous with the four C-45 transports.

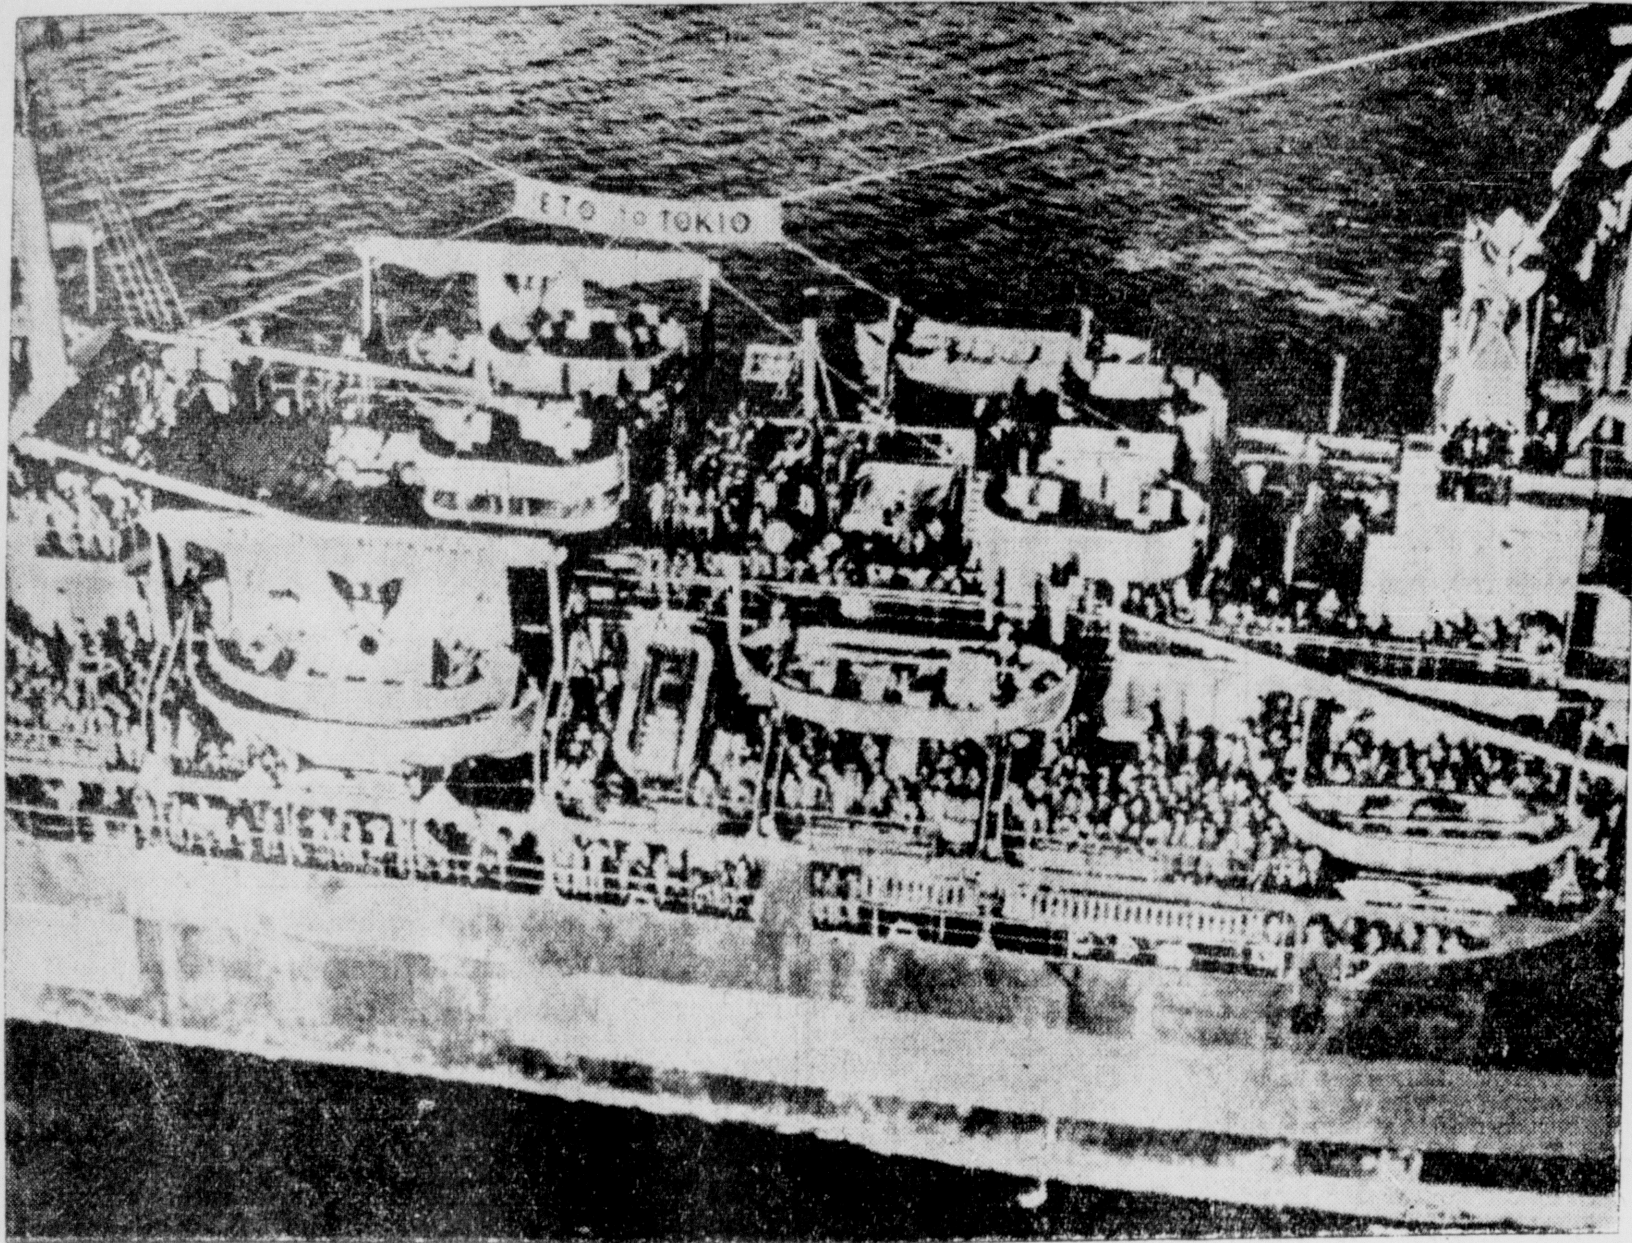

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, headed the official party going to national airport across the Potomac to welcome Eisenhower and escort him to the pentagon for a greeting from Secretary of War Stimson and 32,000 pentagonians.

This represented the beginning of a band-studded parade route which, after taking the five-star general through the war department's inner courtyard, carried on past Arlington National Cemetery, where soldier dead of this and other wars sleep, and into Washington over a memorial bridge.

From there the route extended down broad and tree-shaded Constitution avenue, then along the avenue famous for historic parolees, Pennsylvania, to the capitol.

There congress put aside its chores to join with members of the supreme court in a 12:30 p. m. joint session to hear an address by the general.

A Short Rest—Then Tokio-Bound

The greatest demonstration for troops returning from the European theatre of operations took place in New York when three transport ships landed with 14,000 men and officers of the 86th Black Hawk

Launch Plan to Hike Sales Of E-Bonds

A special state-wide drive to sell more "E" bonds has been launched throughout Pennsylvania today. An attractive V-mail certificate has been designed which will permit persons to buy bonds for men or women in service and use this special form to notify the service man that a bond has been bought in his name and is being held for his return.

It is hoped that this promotion will be the means of stepping up sales of "E" Bonds which are seriously lagging throughout the state. The idea is somewhat similar to a plan that was tried with success here in Warren County during the 6th War Loan when a gift certificate was designed and printed. This could be mailed to men and women in service notifying them that a bond had been bought in their name.

In the current 7th War Loan the Metzger Wright Company has already run two advertisements pointing out the features of this V-Mail Gift Certificate. These ads told how these Gift V-Mail Certificates could be secured. All banks and post offices will have them. Persons buying bonds from any of these sources will fill out the regular application form and note thereon that a V-Mail Certificate is desired. Then the issuing agent will fill out the V-Mail certificate in the manner prescribed and mail both it and the bond to the purchaser. In this way the bond can be kept for the recipient and he be notified that the purchase was made in his name by means of the V-Mail certificate.

George Bernard Shaw wrote for nine years before he was able to make a living at it. His total income for that period was $30.

C., where she has accepted a position at the applied physics laboratory of John Hopkins University. Miss Lundmark was graduated June 2 from Marjorie Webster College in Washington, having the highest average of the class. Honors were also bestowed upon her in having been selected class president for two years and voted the most popular girl of her class. In Class Night exercises, a feature of the commencement exercises which were attended by her mother and her sister, Mrs. Howard Anderson, was the presentation of diplomas to the graduates by General Mark Clark, whose daughter, Ann, was a graduate.

Dr. Townsend Here Tonight

Warren members of the nationwide Townsend plan are eagerly waiting tonight's meeting with the originator of the mutual insurance plan, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, who arrived in Warren this morning after holding meetings in Chicago.

Also accompanying Dr. Townsend are Dr. Norman W. Pendleton, minister and moderator, and Carroll Johnson, regional director of the Townsend Club.

The Warren meeting will be this evening at eight o'clock in the Court House with all the above named scheduled to speak. All members of the organization, as well as interested persons are invited to attend.

The purpose of the Townsend meeting tonight is to increase the local membership. The Townsend plan would provide for a nationwide monthly deduction of three percent from all wages earned. The same rate, however, would not apply to all. The working class would have deducted 3 per cent of all wages over $100 each month, and business concerns, whether wholesale or retail, would have 3 per cent of their entire intake deducted.

This money would be used to keep persons over the age of sixty years who would be incapable of earning a steady salary or to those who are crippled or otherwise unable to earn a living. This money would be paid monthly to the persons, provided they spend the amount within a month's time. Dr. Townsend's plan has been in effect twelve years, and the membership now stands over 12,000 clubs throughout the country.

Special Events at Conservatory

There was a capacity crowd of relatives and friends at the Conservatory Friday evening to voice approval of the formal voice recital given by ten young singers to bring to a close a special spring series sponsored by Byron Swanson for the voice department.

During the intermission, announcement was made of several special events listed in the next few weeks. Thursday night of this week, starting at 8:30 o'clock, a joint recital will be given by Eleanor Swanson, pianist, and Byron Swanson, tenor.

At the same hour on June 28th, the only admission concert of the season will be presented by advanced students of Warren and branch studios.

Commencement exercises are scheduled for July 2 and the final voice recital will be heard on July 14. Several junior and senior recitals have been planned. Janet Jones, of Youngsville, having set June 25th for her senior piano presentation. Announcement of these will be made at a later date.

NOTICE

All repaired shoes from E. Masci's Shoe Shop, that have not been called for, may be obtained at 315 United Ave. I will not be responsible for shoes not called for after June 20th.

Chapter 29

HE leaned nearer her. For one moment Lucia thought he was going to strike her, so readily was the hate in his eyes. "Because you wrote asking him for a divorce. Do you remember? The letter you wrote from Florida revealing your love for another man by the name of—Gilbert Emery? I believe it was."

"Gilbert Emery!" At the mention of that long-ago name Lucia knew fear that made her head spin and her hands grow cold and trembling. "So that's the reason you've always hated me," she gasped. "You saw that letter!"

"So you do remember? Yes, I have that letter," he agreed grimly. "Bob was holding it in one hand and a picture of you in the other when he died. I took them. I've held them among my possessions all these years."

"The fool!"

"You were very careful in your letter to describe every detail of your infatuation for this other man," he continued relentlessly. "You knew Bob loved you so much he'd want your happiness. So he gave you your freedom. He drank a poisonous antiseptic and died a horrible death!"

Lucia was shaking all over and her stare was a quivering bluff. "He might have been killed in the next battle," she suggested weakly.

"His dying was not the thing that mattered," he exclaimed. "Death is not always horrible. I have seen wounded men meet it bravely and gladly with their souls illumined at the end." He paused, then added with terrible conviction, "But because of you, Bob took a coward's way out. He was my friend. And I had to see him die!"

LUCIA crushed out her cigarette with a hand that trembled. She opened her lips to speak, but no words would come. "When he died and I read your letter and looked at your picture," Rex continued, "I hoped you and I would meet sometime—somewhere."

"What—what are you going to do?" she asked, her voice breaking with terror.

"Well, it's a long time—and a long way—from France," he reminded her. "But at last we meet. And I find you in a position to wreck another life—another wreck of mine. But it's different this time. I won't let you!"

"What do you mean?"

He stood over her, and his powerful gaze held Lucia until bright sparks of fire leaped from his eyes. She held up her tongue still, her body stiff. This man was insane. He was going to kill her!

"Let's put our cards on the table, Mrs. Lambert," he suggested. "Frankly, if you don't let go of Kay Lambert's life, I'll—"

"You'll kill me!"

He continued to stare into her face. "Strange, isn't it?" he mused. "That I should spend my life trying to give you life—and yet now I want to kill you!"

Her hands moved to her throat and she shrank far back into her chair in terror. "Don't—don't," she whispered. "Please don't kill me. I—I—"

"Kill you?" he repeated. "That would be a good break compared with what you deserve!"

HE turned back to his chair and Lucia hastily lit a cigarette and drew heavily on it several times. She saw his face was white with weariness, and she breathed a little more easily. She rose and moved to the door.

There she paused and flung her words defiantly at him. "I have no respect for death. So do your worst, Dr. Warner! She even managed an insolent smile as she slammed the door and hurried away.

Outside, she drove her car as fast as she dared through the traffic on Peachtree Street. Somehow the automobile was swerving, she couldn't keep it straight. Perhaps it was the trembling of her hands. She needed a drink, she decided.

In the cocktail lounge of the smart hotel several people turned to look at the beautiful woman in green. A few of them looked long enough to see that she was greatly agitated and trembling.

Lucia did not see the admiring glances; for once vanity didn't matter with her. For the first time in her life she was frightened and unsure of herself.

The liquor was warm and stimulating. Lucia began to feel better, things were clearing before her eyes. She held up her mirror and powdered her nose, she had regained her color. In fact, she looked all right. And, she thought, I feel all right, too!

And why not? she asked herself as she drank another cocktail—and another. She was Lucia Lambert. Why had she let some silly doctor upset her? All her life she'd managed to get along, she'd had her own way.

She'd show Rex Warner he couldn't frighten her. She hurried to a telephone and called Jimmy. "Come on, Jimmy," she cried. "It's time to stop work. I'm in the cocktail lounge at the Kingsland Hotel. Hurry!"

"Lucia, I can't," he protested. "You know I've told you—"

"Oh, so you won't come? Because of Kay, I suppose?"

"Well, we are engaged, you know."

"Yes, I know. You've given me that excuse often enough. But just this time," she wheedled, "Can't make it, Lucia. I'm sorry."

"Oh, don't apologize!" she slammed the receiver on its hook and went back for another cocktail.

So Jimmy was really through with her, was he? He'd told her so ever since his engagement was announced, but she'd usually had her way with him. And, she decided with rising hysteria, she was going to have it this time.

Restaurants To Get More Cuts In Red Points

The local war price and rationing board admits that food rationing has caused many headaches for the housewife but suggests that if the reader multiplies those pains many hundreds of times he will realize how the restaurant operator suffers.

The board states that since rationing of food began, the practice of dining out has boomed. In New York City, for example, eating places which served 3,000,000 meals a day before rationing started, now serve 8,000,000 meals daily.

The result has been a vicious circle: The higher the point value of foods, the more people eat in restaurants—and the less food the restaurants have with which to feed their diners-out.

In an effort to break this circle and to compel people to stay more within the food limits of their home rationing points, the Office of Price Administration last week decided to take a rather drastic step.

Starting July 1st, public eating places will get considerably less points with which to purchase rationed foods. Restaurant customers must expect to find fewer meat selections on menus, and fewer servings of these. Sugar for making etc., will be considerably reduced and cake will be almost non-existent, ice-cream scarce, and pie will become only a tantalizing possibility.

So, in dining out, do not be disappointed if your dinners consist of fish or eggs, with macaroni or rice, and possibly a pudding for desert.

Note to restaurants: Full particulars later. Watch the papers.

Book Games Are Planned At Library

Last year the summer reading game, The Armed Services Book Contest, was so popular in the children's room that the public library is ready to try another program this summer. It will start next Monday. This year there will be three summer book games, The "Indian War Bonnet," The "Quest of the Golden Apple," and "You Own Book Shelf."

The games open for young contestants next Monday, June 18th, and will end two months later on August 18th. Prizes will be awarded at the close of the contest to the winner of each of the three games and also to the boy or girl reading the largest number of books during the summer.

The games will also be on the program at the summer library neighborhood stations at Home Street, Lacy and McClintock schools. These stations will be visited once a week from June 25th until August 24th, when the games will be conducted, books circulated and a story hour held.

The Home Street school visit will be made on Mondays from 9 o'clock in the morning until noon. Lacy School visits will be on Tuesday at the same hours and McClintock school on Wednesdays. Inquiries about the rules of the three games may be made at the desk in the children's room. Miss Georgia Spigney will be in charge of the contests and will hear reports on books each week day from 2 o'clock until 5 in the afternoon, after the games start next Monday.

The Indian War Bonnet and The Quest of the Golden Apple are for boys and girls from the fourth to the eighth grades. Your Own Book Shelf has been planned for children from the first to the third grades.

No Sympathy

mean a turning point to her."

"It has," Kay agreed grimly. "She's leaving Francis. She's upstairs packing now. I heard her calling about a plane to Miami."

"Oh!"

At that moment they heard footsteps and, glancing up the wide stairway, they saw Lucia pause on the landing. She was beautifully dressed and holding her head with her old insolent poise. They saw the hate and contempt in her eyes for this house, for them, for Lowell. But no sorrow nor remorse for Tommy's death.

They saw much more than that. They saw her look out the window on the stairway; they saw the hate in her eyes turn to surprise, then fright.

"Look!" Ned cried, pointing out the windows. "I've been afraid of that!"

They all hurried to the front door. They saw a horde of mill workers crowding up the road to the Lambert house. They knew instantly these people had been overworked and keyed up to fight for a long time over Lucia's interference and lack of sympathy; they saw the pent-up grievances, the fury, the demand for vengeance over Tommy's death.

Ned looked at his watch again, and whispered hoarsely, "No wonder the whistle for the shift hasn't blown—the mill has stopped running."

It was true. The silence of the mill was the most dreadful sound any of them had ever heard. They knew at once the workers supposed to go at this time had met those coming off, and told them of Tommy's death, they had encouraged each other to revolt against the power that had corrupted their work and their lives. The mob spirit had spread, had tightened its hold, until the crowd of people were intent on one thing only. It was their demand for Lucia. They cry for revenge.

Stray Leaves From Notebook Of Reporter About Town

Some months ago the New Kensington Fire Department purchased the Johnson Cabins on the Allegheny river at Starbrick. The fire men plan some extensive improvements and have already done much work on the cabins and on the site. Firemen and their families will spend much time at the camp enjoying the fishing and boating. The place promises plenty of activity during the summer months.

One of the firemen T. J. Murphy has composed some verse relative to the camp and the beauty of the location which is being widely circulated in the New Kensington district and it will undoubtedly aid in advertising the unattractiveness of the Allegheny river.

The verses are as follows:

OUR CAMP
A little bit of heaven,
On the Allegheny shore
Near Warren, Pennsylvania
Lies the spot we all adore.

With its wide open spaces
Where the scenery is so grand
Mother nature did her duty
As this paradise was planned.

The winding river on its way
Flows gently to the sea.
The country side for miles around
Bewilders you and me.

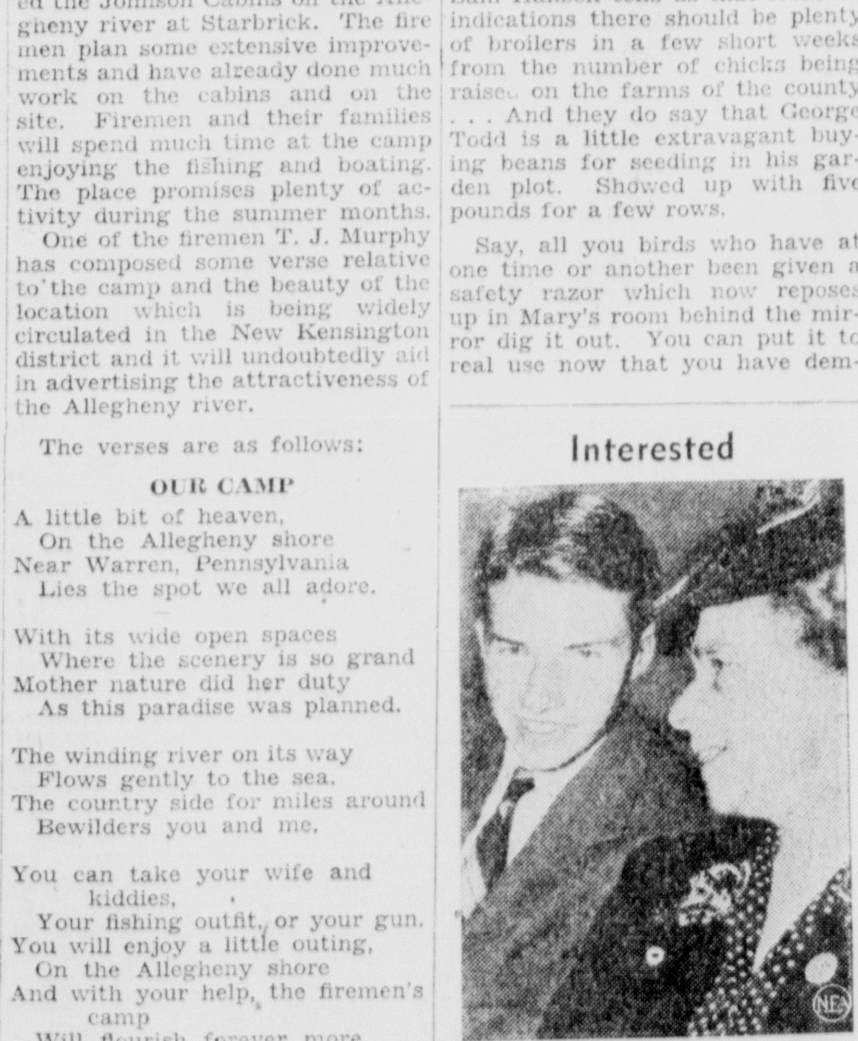

You can take your wife and kiddies,
Your fishing outfit, or your gun.
You will enjoy a little outing,
On the Allegheny shore
And with your help, the firemen's camp
Will flourish forever more.

A letter from Elbert Pratt, of Titusville, Box 9, reminds us that Mrs. Mabel Murphy who for years taught school in Eldred township is continuing her success in the Shreve school near Union City, Genevieve Komuchowsky, one of the pupils was high for Erie county in her marks. Mr. Pratt is a former Warren county resident. Sam Hanson tells us that from all indications there should be plenty of broilers in a few short weeks from the number of chicks being raised on the farms of the county. And they do say that George Todd is a little extravagant buying beans for seeding in his garden plot. Showed up with five pounds for a few rows.

Say, all you birds who have at one time or another been given a safety razor which now reposes up in Mary's room behind the mirror dig it out. You can put it to real use now that you have demonstrated that you haven't the will power to shave with it. Down at Valley Forge there are a lot of boys who have returned from the battlefields blinded in one way or another. They can use those safety razors and there is a crying need for them. It doesn't have to be in A-1 condition as a big arm will fix them for the boys without cost. So if you have an electric razor gathering dust and rust just do it up and send it to the Valley Forge Hospital, Veterans Administration, Valley Forge, Pa. And don't delay doing it, either. . . . And incidentally while doing that gather up a few good books and send them along. There are a lot of boys there who can read and read the books. . . . Count Guifre who sure serves some succulent steaks at his feederie on Penn avenue, west invaded Times Square the other day just looking rough. . . .

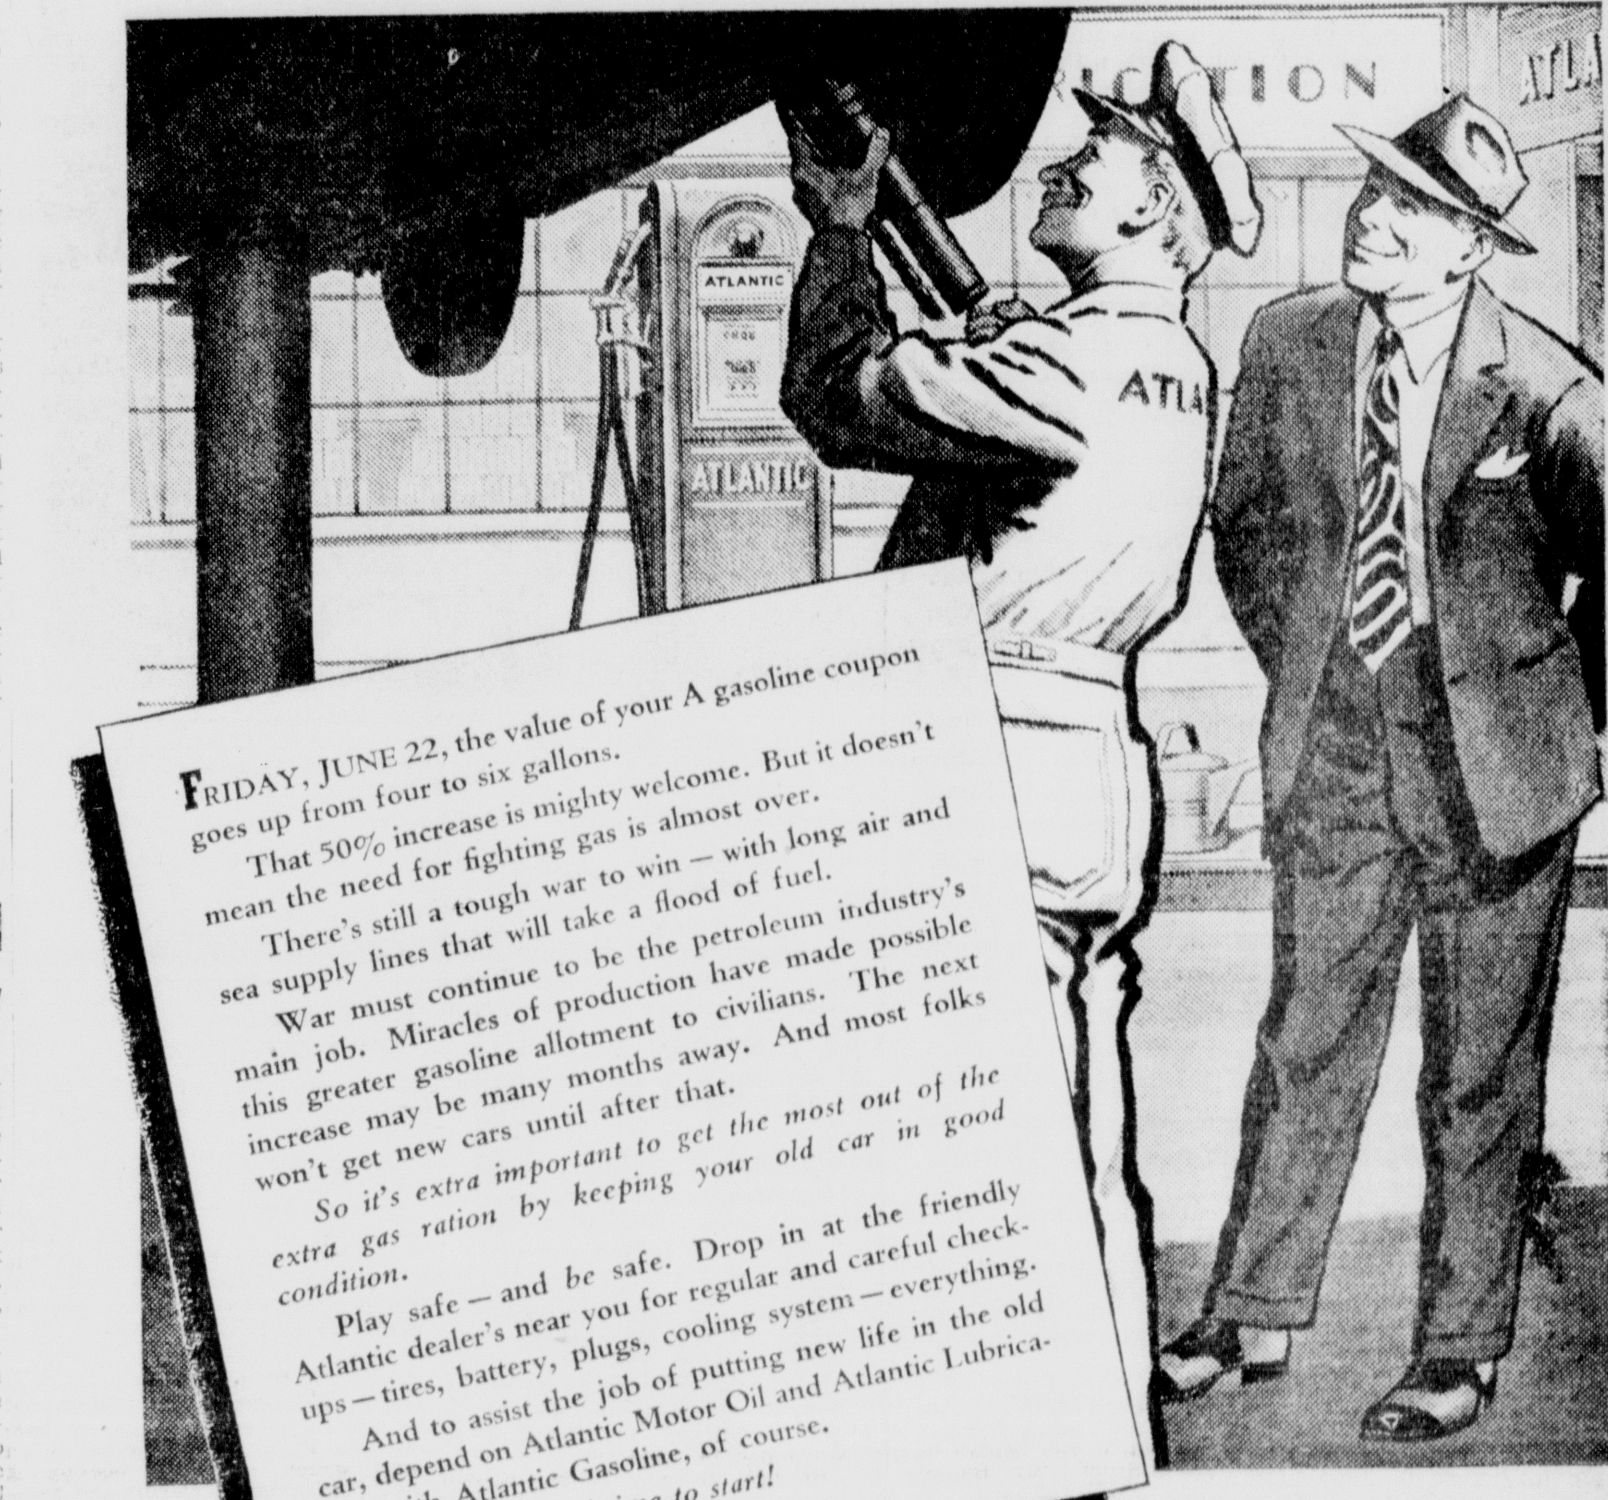

"Mush" Mathis took us up in his new Cub Coupe one evening last week. Rode around in fine style for almost an hour and we sure did cover a lot of territory. Sort of makes a fellow feel puny to get up in the air and look around. At one spot we could see Lakes Erie and Chautauqua and the smoke from Erie, Bradford, Jamestown and Warren. One thing that got a lot of attention was the fact that there was cultivation underway on almost every cleared spot in the county. . . . The ride up the river to Sugar Run was wonderful and then the trip over the hills to a point between Frewsburg and Jamestown and a look at the Conewago Valley was really great. Glory be, we guys tied to an office chair really should get out and fly a plane. It exhilarates the whole system, tickles the spine and makes a fellow feel better just to get up closer to the sky. . . .

Eighty-eight million motor vehicles have been produced in the United States in the past 45 years.

GIVE YOUR CAR A LIFT FOR THOSE EXTRA MILES!

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, the value of your A gasoline coupon goes up from four to six gallons. That 50% increase is mighty welcome. But it doesn't mean the need for fighting gas is almost over. There's still a tough war to win—with long air and sea supply lines that will take a flood of fuel. War must continue to be the petroleum industry's main job. Miracles of production have made possible this greater gasoline allotment to civilians. The next increase may be many months away. And most folks won't get new cars until after that. So it's extra important to get the most out of the extra gas ration by keeping your old car in good condition. Play safe—and be safe. Drop in at the friendly Atlantic dealer's near you for regular and careful check-ups—tires, battery, plugs, cooling system—everything. And to assist the job of putting new life in the old car, depend on Atlantic Motor Oil and Atlantic Lubrication with Atlantic Gasoline, of course. Today is a good time to start!

Chapter 31

HEARING the sound of voices in the hall, the doctor turned his head. He saw Kay standing there, weeping. He saw Rex Warner draw her into his arms, heard his voice when he begged, "Don't, darling, don't cry so hard."

"But I—I can't help it," she sobbed. "Why do I lose everyone I love?"

Dr. Sims walked slowly down the steps. When he reached the sidewalk he was surprised to see a score of men standing about the front of the Martin home, their faces expressionless in the light from the street lamp.

"How's Tommy, Doc?" a voice asked.

Dr. Sims knew a moment of uneasiness. He didn't like the ominous quietness of this group. He had seen enough of mobs and strikes to prefer grief and indignation at a time like this; any expression was preferable to the silent judgment on the faces of these men.

"Tommy"—Dr. Sims heard his voice falter as he remembered the blackness of his loss—"Tommy has gone."

"It was Mrs. Lambert driving that car, wasn't it?" someone asked.

Dr. Sims made no answer. He'd pretend he didn't hear; these men would go to work on the next shift. If there was no disturbance before then—

"It was, wasn't it, Doc?" The voice was more insistent, refusing to be ignored.

"Yes," he told them then. "It was—Mrs. Lambert." And he knew without turning that the men didn't even look at each other, nor did they speak, as they moved away to the mill.

DR. SIMS looked about Lucia's living room. The place had changed so much since he'd been here years ago. The people grouped about were different, too, yet all alike in that each wore that haggard look of grief and weariness that follows death and sleepiness.

Jimmy Brent was seated on a queer white sofa with Barbara Downs beside him. His blond hair was rumpled, his blue eyes sunken and hollow, his handsome face washed free of wordiness. Barbara was murmuring words of comfort to him. Gradually Jimmy's shoulders straightened and he turned to Barbara with gratitude and hope in his tired face.

Ned and Francis were standing together, talking in low tones. Ned kept looking nervously at his watch. Francis' face was pale and much older, yet his dark eyes gleamed with a new force and determination. Dr. Sims realized suddenly that whatever influence Lucia had held over Francis was gone. This man was Katherine's husband standing there talking with his vice-president, planning to restore the glory of Lowell. There was no need for Dr. Sims to talk with Francis now. Francis didn't need any advice.

And Kay and Dr. Warner together on the window seat. They were silent, as though words might separate them, and they were clutching these few moments against the time they must inevitably part.

Dr. Sims saw Rex's eyes cling to Kay's left hand—Jimmy's engagement ring was gone, evidently by mutual agreement. Somehow Dr. Sims had known they wouldn't marry. That Kay would find she couldn't defy her own standards.

HE sighed and leaned back in his chair. Kay came quickly and stood by him. "I'm afraid you've overdone your strength," Dr. Sims said. "You must drink some coffee, Liz. I'm making some. Then you must lie down."

"I thought I'd talk with Mrs. Lambert. Perhaps last night will let it know I'm scared of it! Have you ever really and truly been scared, Jimmy?"

"Lucia, please let me have the wheel. You'll kill us both."

"No, I won't do it! This is my car."

"But you're likely to wreck it. And then Francis won't give you another," he pointed out.

"I can drive all right. You'll see."

"Lucia! Stop the car," he shouted. "Let me drive!"

Lucia laughed wildly. "Oh, Jimmy, you're scared. Don't be scared. It'll make a coward of you!"

For fright had caught up with Lucia again. A terrible fear of the past. Of what she'd done to Bob Wentworth's life. Of what the past might do to tomorrow's security. . . .

But why worry about tomorrow's security? The thing which had been in the back of her mind had begun to take shape. She was going to leave Lowell forever.

SHE ignored Jimmy's plea to let him drive. "I'm in a hurry, Jimmy. I've just made up my mind about something. Oh, I'm free! I'm gloriously free!"

"Well, you won't be free long," he warned her. "You'll be in jail, or the hospital."

"If you'd taken a drink you wouldn't have been so careful."

The car swerved crazily about a truck. Lucia's dainty foot pressed harder and harder. Now they were crossing the bridge over the railroad tracks. Her voice sang out, "Who's afraid of the bad, bad bridge?"

"Slow down, you idiot!" Jimmy cried.

Lucia's defiant laugh rang out high and shrill; her eyes were like burning coals of fire. Her hand pressed the horn when, on Lambert Avenue, there were several children playing in the street. "Get out of the way, you little brats!" she shouted.

FLYING FARMERS

We don't know how all this is going to affect Old Paint, or what it may do in time of the ten-gallon hat and high-heeled boot industry, but it appears that the postwar cowhand may be heading for the big roundup in a neat little cabin plane.

At least that's the impression we get from reading a piece in the trade magazine, Implement & Tractor, which comes right out and says, "The airplane is farm equipment." And to prove that it's the farmer's idea and not the magazine's, the article quotes a recent survey by a manufacturer which indicates that rural America will provide the postwar market for 60 per cent of his factory's light personal planes.

That doesn't mean, of course, that a man won't be able to farm 50 acres of hilly Vermont land without an airplane in the days to come. But the article makes out a pretty good case for the practical use of aircraft in the western and midwestern territories of flat terrain and big farms. In fact, the airplane is being used by some farmers already.

There is an organization called the Oklahoma Flying Farmers, for instance. And its president is quoted as saying that if he had to choose between his airplane and his car, he's afraid the car would have to go.

Here are some of the things Implement & Tractor thinks a postwar farmer can do with a $1000-or-so plane: He might sow crops and dust them, ride herds and inspect fences, take produce to market, get needed repair parts for other implements in a hurry, take the kids to school when roads are impassable (a dirty trick on the kids, we say), or just go to town for shopping and a movie on Saturday.

Any level field or pasture would do for a landing strip, the magazine says, and you could taxi right up to the hay barn, which would serve nicely as a hangar. As for the farmer's learning to fly, it appears that the postwar personal plane is going to be so nearly stall-and-fool-proof that you would have to fly it smack into the silo in order to wreck it.

We haven't quite dared pursue the possibilities to their ultimate effect on the colorful West, but we can see that the effect would be felt far beyond the actual business of farming and ranching. For one thing, it would revolutionize the rodeo business. We'd probably have stunt flying instead of bronco riding, with steers being bulldozed by a deft slap of a tail skid.

Git along, little dogie, before ya git dive-bombed.

PROSPECTS FOR A LONG WAR

The Japanese defense of Okinawa has served to quiet most of the wishful talk about an early surrender that was so prevalent a month ago. And General Stilwell, in a recent statement from that embattled island, has blown the last wisp of rosy cloud away by showing the bad logi: of most of our estimates of Jap weakness.

The general points out the foolishness of expecting mass disintegration of morale from an army which displays such individual stubbornness and determination. He rightly discounts the hope that Japan will quit once the "voice of the people" is raised. The people are not likely to overthrow easily a strong, ruthless military clique that came to power by means of assassination and can preserve power in the same way.

And General Stilwell views the Jap suicide attacks not as something born of desperation, but as something which the Japs believe is an effective tactic. We sometimes forget in this country what an expendable commodity human life is to the Japanese.

In predicting a war of perhaps two more years' duration, General Stilwell did not mention Japan's acknowledgment of the complete destruction of her greatest cities, since it is undoubtedly propaganda calculated to make America complacent. But, propaganda aside, it is beyond question that our air attacks have caused tremendous devastation.

Yet Japan fights on. The Japs are doomed and their government surely knows it. It is a senseless, suicidal war they fight, but they seem now to have made their decision.

At this stage of the game, the Japs appear less defeatist-minded than the Germans did at approximately the same stage of their progressive downfall. And D-Day in Japan has not yet arrived.

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

When I discussed the Cowardly Lions a couple of weeks ago, I was practically sure I'd get into trouble. You see, the Lions are a Local Issue. Many people have opinions about them. You'd be surprised how diverse these opinions are; with what passionate fervor they are held. The debate on the Kinzua Dam is as nothing to them. Even the indignation of some ladies when they find a dog's footprint in their flowerbed, pales into faint pink when compared with the ruddy choler which surrounds the innocent Cats. When I got to the end of that piece, I thought maybe I shouldn't have done it. I dreaded what might come of it all. I felt an anticipatory tremor. I considered the wastebasket. But I also considered that eleven hundred words, regardless of their content, are nothing to mingle lightly with a lot of waste paper. Also I had a faint stirring of adventurous curiosity.

My premonitions were correct. Since this Commonplace Book began its hesitant career, several dozens of people have commented about this or that item. But with the entrance of the Cowardly Lions the modest flow of comment became a torrent. I even received a letter about them. It purports to come from the two beasts themselves. Evidently they resented the tone of my remarks. Let me quote some parts of it:

"Oho-o-o-o! This is a howl, not a roar! How could you do that to us? We just wanted to attend a Board Meeting at the Library, and this is as far as we could get. We are NOT cowardly lions; neuroathenic, neurotic, or paranoid lions. We are Warren's Social Lions. What better place for a Social Lion than Warren's Public Library?"

"We can forgive you for wishing that Warren might become the birthplace of some mighty Milton, but don't wish an Ogden Nash on us. And then, in the same breath, speak of Warren as a pleasant place to settle down in. Thank you for saying we could not be found in Gertrude Stein, though. Our period of gestation really was spent in some more understandable place.

"By innuendo you almost cast a shadow on our past, claiming that we are not creatures of free will and that our former history is unknown. To clear up this point, we beg to inform you that our birthplace was Laissez-Fairlyland and we intend to spend the evening of our lives with Allus in Blunderland.

"In conclusion, just a word about the deplorable condition of our tails. You should have known better than to hint that we lost them in combat; for we are, as we said, Social Lions, spiritual kin of Ferdinand de Taura. It was inhibitions that cut short our tails and our tale. Respectfully, LEO et LEO."

Now! You see what I mean?

There are other points of view. Some say the Lions are too emotional for their present position in front of the classic serenity of the Library; that they inject a note of petulant hypochondria in a scene that is otherwise bland and philosophical. Some do not understand those brown areas of what appears to be mange, that seem to cover their backs. Others think they serve a practical purpose in line with the recent Program of Youth Recreation. For the moppets do climb on their backs and have a fine time. Too, some youngsters have been known, I am told, to decorate the toes with nail polish and the muzzles with lipstick. So maybe there's a point there. Others think the lions should remain where they are but should have names. We are open to suggestions.

Well, I won't go on just now. But there's nothing like a couple of Bob-Tailed Lions to become overnight a Public Issue.

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Your Capital in Wartime:

It's a foregone conclusion here that Sen. Harry S. Truman didn't personally want any part of the vice presidency, much less the Presidency.

That being understood, it probably isn't disrespectful to report that White House gossip says he is getting quite a kick out of two of his presidential heritages: (1) the modest little swimming pool in the west wing of the White House; and (2) the Presidential yacht, Potomac.

President Truman hasn't had much time to use either, but it already is apparent that he will use the yacht for occasional hideaways on week-ends, much as President Coolidge did; or as a place to knock off important addresses, as President Roosevelt did.

The swimming pool will provide moments of physical relaxation on calendar-full days; but for mental relaxation, it won't take the place of the President's piano at which he enjoys "doodling out" tunes both classical and popular.

THE federal court judges who grant citizenship to aliens are full of good stories. One of the better ones came off recently when a judge spent some time explaining all about the American flag, paused for a moment, and then asked what it was that we see most often flying over the nation's capital.

One cheerful little fellow held

One of the most satisfying plays of the season in New York is "Dark of the Moon." It is certainly not a headliner. It will never pack them in three months ahead, like such standard jobs as "Oklahoma." It is a poetic fantasy, emotionally incandescent; it with strangeness and eerie madness.

The story is derived from the famous folk-ballad, "Barbara Allen":

A witch-boy from the mountain came
A-plin! to be human.

For he had seen the fairest gal,
The blue-eyed Barbara Allen.

O Conjur Man, O Conjur Man,
Please do this thing I'm wantin',
Just change me to a human man,
For Barbara I'd be courtin'.

The Conjur Man agrees to turn the Witch Boy into a man. If Barbara Allen remains his faithful wife for one year, he may remain human always. But if she is unfaithful, she will die and he must return to the Mountain where the Witch Girls will be mining for his return. John, as a human, has a hard time chopping enough wood to keep himself and Barbara in food. He runs into trouble with Barbara's former suitor and with Preacher Haggler, a great connoisseur of corn likker. The mountain midwife delivers Barbara of John's baby, but it is a witch. They burn it.

There is a terrific revival scene. "Some folks says the Lord Jesus was a Jew," thunders Preacher Haggler. "Some folks says he was a Christian. But we all know he was a Baptist." John finds the pain of living is something he had not counted on, even with beautiful Barbara. The high line of the play is John's, "Sometimes bein' human is more'n I can bear."

Barbara wishes to be faithful to John in spite of the enmity of her neighbors. But they learn of his bargain with the Conjur Man. All of them, including the Preacher, join in trying to bring about her seduction through the not unwilling agency of one Marvin Huggins. "Taint no sin!" roars the preacher. "Taint no sin!" echoes the congregation. "Taint no sin!" urges Marvin. So Barbara Allen is hounded into submission the last night before the year ends. The poor Witch Boy returns to the embraces of the Witch Girls, where he is to live for three hundred years and then be "nothing but fog on the mountains."

ACCORDING to Jerry Klutts, a Washington Post columnist whose business it is to know all about government employees, W. Pierce MacCoy, State Department assistant personnel director, has an infallible rule for getting the best out of the workers under his command.

"The MacCoy law is: 'Give two pats on the back for every kick in the pants.'"

ADD to the fact that the government goes round-and-round: the new Secretary of Agriculture Clint Anderson will get all of the authority when he takes office that Chester Davis, initially appointed wartime "food czar," was denied and quit because he couldn't have.

Actually, there's a good reason for it. When Davis was appointed, the emphasis was on military supplies other than food—airplanes, tanks, tires, munitions, etc.

Now all the cutbacks have started in most of those products and the emphasis has been shifted to food—food for civilians at home, for starving nations abroad, and for the armed forces that still have the Pacific to clean up.

During the next year, you will hear more about food and less about other supplies than at any time since Pearl Harbor and the man who will have to work it out will be Anderson.

Second Lieut. Sasserson Now Presumed Dead In Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Sasserson, 115 Park street, have been advised by Major J. A. Ulio, adjutant general, that a year having elapsed since their son, 2nd Lt. Stanley Gordon Sasserson, has been missing in action, the War Department now presumes him dead.

Excerpts from his letter follow: "Since your son, Second Lieutenant Stanley G. Sasserson, Air Corps, was reported missing in action 27 May 1944, the War Department has entertained the hope that he survived and that information would be revealed dispelling the uncertainty surrounding his absence. However, as in many cases, the conditions of warfare deny us such information. The record concerning your son shows that on 27 May 1944 he was a crew member of a B-24 (Liberator) bomber which departed from England on a mission to Neumunster, Germany. About 9:42 a. m., five miles north of Cromer, England, over the English Channel, your son's plane collided with another of our aircraft, and was seen to be badly damaged, the tail section coming off and falling apart, while the plane went into a spiral dive and disappeared. I regret to inform you that no parachutes were seen.

"Full consideration has been given all available information bearing on the absence of your son, including all records, reports and circumstances. These have been carefully reviewed and considered. In view of the fact that twelve months have now expired without receipt of evidence to support a continued presumption of survival, the War Department must terminate such absence by a presumptive finding of death. In the case of your son the presumptive date has been set at 28 May 1945, the day following the expiration of twelve months absence.

Local Officer Is Decorated On Okinawa

It has just been learned here that Captain James A. Davidson, Air Forces chaplain on Okinawa, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement under fire.

The news has come from Mrs. Davidson, who is in Pittsburgh until the end of June, visiting her mother, Mrs. Porter Beck.

She says that Captain "Allie", as he is known to Warren friends, writes that Jap suicide planes are over their position constantly, with eight raids in one single night keeping the boys in their shelters most of the time.

He writes, also, that he hasn't been "dry" since he landed on the island. Mud is knee deep and foxholes are filled with water just about all the time.

Leon Anthony Is Recipient Of Air Medal

From a U. S. Troop Carrier base in the European theatre it is learned that Pvt. Leon J. Anthony was recently awarded the Air Medal for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights over enemy positions from June 7 to December 27, 1944. Presentation was made in the presence of his company, the 490th QM Depot Company, "Flying Quartermaster", by Captain Edward B. Cole, commanding officer.

Pvt. Anthony served as a drop-master flying in unarmed and unarmored Troop Carrier aircraft during the invasions of France and Holland and the German counter-offensive in the Ardennes salient. His express duty was to insure the accurate dropping of aerial supplies and ammunition by parachute to troops holding isolated positions surrounded by hostile forces.

In the face of intense enemy fire, doubly perilous because of the explosive cargoes carried in his plane, Pvt. Anthony worked precariously in the open "jump door" of his plane, which swayed violently in evasive action, releasing the heavy supply loads to eagerly waiting troops on the ground. The courageous manner in which he carried out his duty reflected the highest credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States and earned for him the award.

Pvt. Anthony has two children, Robert and Shirley, living at Pittsfield, and has two brothers in the service, S/Sgt. Edward in the South Pacific and Donald in the navy.

John Papalia Is Promoted

T/Sgt. John S. Papalia, 20, of 18 Eddy street, has recently been promoted to his present rank, according to a dispatch from 15th AAF headquarters in Italy. Radio operator on 15th Air Force Flying Fortress, he is a member of the 97th Bombardment Group, oldest heavy bomber unit in the Mediterranean theatre.

A graduate of Warren High School, he was employed as Swick's Service Station when he enlisted in the Air Forces on August 30, 1943. Later he attended the radio operators school at Sioux Falls, S. D., where he was graduated on May 28 of last year.

Sgt. Papalia has been awarded the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster and also wears the European-African-Middle Eastern theater ribbon with four battle participation stars.

The 8th, of which he is a part, is the first heavy bombardment group to fly more than 480 high altitude bombing missions, having bombed enemy installations in almost every axis-dominated country in Europe, with bases in England, North Africa, Russia and Italy.

Pfc. Hecei Is Given Awards In Marianas

A delayed dispatch from a B-29 base in the Marianas contains the news that Pfc. Carl J. Hecei, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hecei, 34 Keystone avenue, Sheffield, has been presented two awards for outstanding service, the announcement having been made at headquarters of the 21st Bomber Command.

The Army Air Forces Award for possession of outstanding capabilities as an airplane metal worker was presented to Pfc. Hecei. He also received the Good Conduct Medal for having served with exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity for over one year of continuous duty in the army of the United States. The organization of which he is a member in the Marianas performs vital supply, maintenance and service functions in keeping the huge Super-fortress aloft over enemy territory.

Pvt. Joseph E. Gerardi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gerardi, has left for Shepard Field, Texas, after enjoying a short delay en route from Scott Field, Ill., where she was graduated from radio school.

Lt. James Richards has returned to his base at Little Creek, Va., after a leave spent with his family, 10 Brook street.

RUSSELL

Russell, June 14—Mrs. Maynard Briggs entertained at a birthday dinner at her home in honor of Mrs. Lyle Russell. Mrs. Selma Miller gave a fannegraph of Moses in the wilderness. She also Mrs. Ray Fehman, Mrs. Jordan, the guitar. Those present were: sang several hymns and played Sears, Mrs. Dayger, Mrs. Anna Yeagle, the honor guest, Mrs. Bernard McJunkin, Mrs. Daniel Houghwot, of Russell, and Mrs. Selma Miller, of Warren.

Mrs. Harry Baker, Main street, was hostess to the members of the So-S-e-w Club at her home Tuesday evening, with 11 members and one visitor, Mrs. Lucy Hegstrom, of Warren, present. Games were played with Mrs. Orval Kirby, Mrs. Lawrence Briggs and Mrs. William Walters receiving prizes. The defense stamp went to Mrs. Robert Huntley. The hostess served a luncheon. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Elburn Briggs.

A cottage prayer meeting was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Yeagle. Mrs. Conklin, of the Methodist church of Warren, conducted the service in the absence of Rev. Drury. There were forty present at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Henrickson are visiting relatives in Pittsburgh.

Guests this week of their parents Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Atkins, and family were Mr. and Mrs. George Atkins and daughter, of Indiantown Gap, and Mrs. Paul Atkins, Philadelphia. Returning with them today were the latter's son, Kenneth, who has been staying with his grandparents for several months, and their brother, Russell Atkins, who will spend some time as their guest.

The Mission Aid Society of the Mission Covenant church was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson at their home Friday evening.

Miss Eva Magnuson, New York City, and Rev. and Mrs. Otto Bloomster, of Kennard, Pa., have been vacationing at the Magnuson farm on the Swede Hollow road. Miss Magnuson was formerly a teacher in the local schools, and Rev. Bloomster at one time served as pastor of a church near here.

Richard Johnson, of Warren, is a guest at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson.

Allen Peterson MAM 2-C, has returned to the Naval base at Norfolk after enjoying a 7-day pass at his home here. He was accompanied as far as Pittsburgh by his mother, Mrs. Lenora Peterson, and brother, Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crowl and daughter, Edith, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Braley, at Bear Lake.

While working in his woodlot recently, Alfred Akens witnessed the strange spectacle of a doe protecting her young, a tiny spotted

Your doctor, who is the first to detect a need for rest in others, has driven himself without mercy in wartime. He serves his own patients as well as those of absent physicians, yet finds time to keep abreast of medicine's many wartime discoveries.

Most people were quick to appreciate the doctor's sacrifices and looked for ways to encourage him. They attended his First Aid classes and learned to call him only when absolutely necessary. They volunteered to assist overtaxed nurses in crowded hospitals... and turned his dream of a national blood bank into a magnificent reality.

Today the word, "cooperation", has a fuller meaning in America. The threat to our freedom has rekindled an intense national spirit... revealed amazing capacities on the part of our people to help themselves and their fellow countrymen until victory is complete. They are strengthened for the road ahead. They should go far, indeed, in aiding our gallant younger generation get the reward it has earned and will go on earning—progress in a world at peace.

When a product maintains the character that people respect, they are quick to demand it. Generations ago, the makers of Budweiser set a standard—distinctive in taste, pure, good and distinguished for its uniform quality. That's why people everywhere have agreed that Budweiser is "something more than beer... a tradition". No wonder it is the most popular beer in history.

GARLAND

Young Lloyd Fisher surprised his parents this week when he arrived for a short furlough, accompanied by a wife, whom he had married Saturday. The bride was the former Frances Reynolds of Geneva, N. Y., where the young people were married. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fisher of Garland, and has been in the service two years, having been hospitalized since March in a New York hospital, due to leg injuries received by being caught between two boxes of ammunition. During the time he has been in service he also was operated on for appendicitis, the surgeon being Dr. G. Hamilton of Warren. Friends join in extending best wishes for happiness. Young Mrs. Fisher will make her home with her husband's parents for the present.

Laura Simmons, who resides in St. Petersburg, Fla., during the winter, is back in this vicinity, now at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. S. Johnson, at Pleasantville.

John Kasper is spending a furlough with relatives in this vicinity following several months in the service.

Vote on Election Day

Winning or losing an election is not a life or death proposition. But winning or losing with a large vote being cast should be quite satisfactory to all concerned. We should not forget the old slogan, "Taxation without representation is tyranny."

During the Revolutionary War there were thousands of lives lost and a lot of blood spilled to give you the right to vote, and since that date there have been, and are still being, thousands upon thousands of lives lost and barrels upon barrels of blood spilled to preserve for you the right to vote. Those boys and girls who have been, and those who are still in there fighting for you, would want you to show your appreciation to them for what they have done for us by casting your ballot on all election days.

VFW Auxiliary Is Sending Group To State Gathering

VFW Auxiliary members held their regular meeting in the post rooms with a good attendance. Elections for the department encampment at Harrisburg on July 7 resulted as follows:

Delegates, Helen Mason, Mabel Phillips, Olga Petersen, Gertrude Pritch, Marie Belton, and Helen Honhart; alternates, Annabelle Pring, E. Hollabaugh, Alice Bean, Wilma Nelson, Vera Taft, Alice Anderson. It was decided to send the three high delegates and alternates to the national encampment in August.

Katherine Allen, who has been in Orlando, Fla., was present for a meeting after a year's absence. At the close of the business session, a program of music was enjoyed and lunch was served by a committee consisting of Helen Mason, Mabel Phillips, Alice Bean and Wilma Nelson. Flowers and flags were used in attractive decorations.

President Helen Mason presented a gift to Gladys Eckman, who is leaving to make her home in Detroit. Hilda Rohlin received the lovely bouquet of flowers awarded by the committee.

Leymon-Robertson Rites at Falconer

Edna Mae Robertson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Robertson, of Warren, and S. Sgt. John Leymon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leymon, of Falconer, N. Y., were married at the Leymon residence at 4 p. m. Friday by the Rev. R. W. Neathery. The home was attractively decorated with spring flowers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Howard Olsen, groomed in grey, with a corsage of gardenias, and the groomsmen were Pfc. Howard Olsen.

The bride chose a powder blue street length dress, with which she wore gardenias. Her mother wore dusty pink with maroon accessories and Mrs. Leymon wore navy accessories with white.

A wedding dinner was served to the immediate families, with a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Gifts were presented to the attendants.

Leaving for a short trip, the couple will be at home, after July 1st, at 1901 East 90th street, Cleveland, Ohio.

65th Anniversary Of Nelson Aults Marked by Party

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Ault, Central avenue, were honored guests Saturday evening when a group of twelve relatives and neighbors gave a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Guignon to celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary.

The Aults were married in Titusville, but have been residents of this community for many years, residing in Central avenue for the past 30 years. They have two children, Miss Zella, at home, and Mrs. Jane Marker, of Warren. A third daughter, Ethel, died several years ago. Both are members of the Methodist church and are enjoying good health. Mr. Ault was employed by the Pennsylvania railroad until his retirement about 25 years ago.

A happy time was spent with talking over old times and serving of refreshments. The couple received many greetings and remembrances of the occasion.

Elaine Carrington

FRIENDS who met Elaine Carrington when she visited at the David Beatty home were happy to find an illustrated interview in the new issue of Look; also that she will speak here at the Woman's Club in early October. The nice things said about her in the reprint below are only a portion of what might be related. She is much in demand for volunteer services, was decorated by President Roosevelt for war loan work and is now in Washington to lend a hand with the Mighty Seventh. The Look article follows: One of the more prolific and highly paid of today's radio writers ($200,000 yearly) is motherly Elaine Carrington, author of three daytime radio shows—When a Girl Marries, Pepper Young's Family (both NBC) and Rosemary (CBS). These serial adventures have 18 million listeners daily, represent an output of 20,000 words per week or the equivalent of 100 full-sized novels in the last ten years.

Despite this quantity production, Variety reports Mrs. Carrington keeps to high-quality scripting, explains this on the basis that she was a successful magazine fictioneer before turning to radio. (She sold her first submitted short story to St. Nicholas for $50 when she was 18.) Long ago The Saturday Evening Post asked her for a family series. She refused. "It would be too tiresome."

But once started on the radio with Pepper Young, she found a "series" flowed easily—based it on her own life with George Carrington (recently dead) and her two children, Patti and Robert. She says radio takes much less time and effort than fiction, because it is all dialogue. She sketches plots rapidly each morning in her New York penthouse apartment by speaking the lines into a dictaphone.

It is an arduous, year-round job, allowing for no vacations—but she doesn't miss them. "My work is fun," she says. For relaxation, she drives through traffic, visits her country place on Long Island to swim and garden. For social life she prefers her children's friends; she enjoys them and they enjoy her objective advice on their personal problems (which often turn up in her scripts).

Back in 1927 she wrote a play, Nightstick. It was a "first" to deal with New York gangster characters and, made into the motion picture "Alibi," it cleaned up $3,000,000. Her only wish: that she had time to write another.

AKELEY WSCS HOLDS MEETING

The Akeley Methodist WSCS held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Fern Way, with a tureen dinner at noon. The meeting was conducted by the president, Ruth Randall, who was assisted in the devotional period by Mrs. Larsen and Mrs. Nelson, with Mrs. Clendenen leading in prayer and Mrs. Ora Miller singing a solo. Minutes of the last meeting were read and roll call showed 14 members present. Mrs. Bradley reported for the Spiritual Life committee, gave a reading and distributed leaflets on "My Prayer Life."

A poem was given by Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Larsen reported for the membership committee. Mrs. Miller for the Girls' Missionary Society. The treasurer's report was encouraging and the Crusade Pledge of $100 was all paid. It was voted to have a mother and daughter banquet, the date to be decided later. It was also voted to order more jello and the suggestion for a rummage sale was left to the next meeting. Also to be decided on later will be a garden party. The society was invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Ida Johnson for the July session. Mrs. Bradley as assisting hostess.

Mrs. Granquist was in charge of the program, which consisted of four readings and an interesting Bible quiz. The meeting was concluded with several short prayers.

C. V. C. C. PARTY

All members present enjoyed the "Kid Party" Saturday night at the Coneywango Valley Country Club. Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Ann Donovan and Albert Mitchell. Present from out of town were Mrs. Hugh Janison, of New York; Miss Jean Chapman, of Tenafly; N. J. John L. Blair, Jr., of Buffalo and Mr. and Mrs. George Williamson, of San Francisco, Calif.

Next scheduled events at the club are a luncheon on the fourth of July, and a dinner-dance on the 7th of July.

REBEKAH LODGE

Rebekah Lodge members and friends enjoyed another card party Friday evening. Prizes were awarded to Erma Eckardt, Mrs. Pat Sexton, Mrs. Kay Anderson, Ethel Dirling, M. E. McNulty, George Kidder, John Bentley and the special prize to Mrs. Jennie McNulty.

Lodge members will meet this Friday afternoon at two o'clock in the hall for Red Cross sewing. The regular supper will be at six o'clock and lodge at eight o'clock.

JOINT MEETING

Tuesday evening at 7:45, the Ruth Ransom Circle of the Grace Methodist church and the Grace Missionary Study Group will hold a joint meeting. A large attendance is desired.

Social Events

FAREWELL HONORS TWO WHO LEAVE

Russell, June 18—Bonnie Walker, who enlisted in the WAVES and left Wednesday for Pittsburgh to report to New York City for training, and Miss Jean Darling, who is leaving to move to Warren, were honored with a farewell given by the Girl Scouts, with which organization they have been very active. Each was presented a remembrance from the troop.

TWO-PIANO RECITAL IN CLARENDON CHURCH

The public is invited to attend a two-piano recital to be given in the Clarendon Methodist church at eight o'clock Tuesday evening by Clara Nielsen and Joyce Barnes. They will be assisted by Betty Weidner, Dorothy Anundson and Virginia Swanson, vocal students of Evelyn Norlin, of Sheffield. A silver offering will be taken to benefit the church choir.

ST. PAUL'S EVENTS

Vacation Bible school today through Friday, 9:30 a. m. to noon; Tuesday, 7:30 p. m.; Eschwege Society at the church; Tuesday, 8 p. m., board of administration; Thursday, 7:30 p. m., Luther League in church parlors; Saturday, annual Sunday school picnic at Island Park, Youngsville, with cars leaving the church at 1:30 p. m.

SHOWER GIVEN FOR MRS. CHARLES COWAN

Mrs. Charles M. Cowan was honored with a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Cowan, 523 Elk avenue, Kane. Among those on the guest list were Mrs. Leon B. Roberts, Eric, Mrs. A. S. Brown, Mrs. H. S. Roberts and Mrs. R. R. Hahn, Sheffield.

LOYALTY CLASS

The June picnic of the Grace Methodist Loyalty Class will be held at the home of Florence Anderson, Yankee Bush road, Tuesday evening, meeting at the church at six o'clock for transportation. Each one attending is asked to bring a tureen and table service, rolls and maroon salad to be provided by the committee.

EMOREE SCHULERS HAVE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Emoree Schuler, Warren Rd. 1, are observing their 25th wedding anniversary today, although no celebration of the milestone has been planned. They were married in Jamestown, N. Y., by the Rev. Eric Nystrom, First Lutheran minister.

Personal Paragraphs

"LUCKY WE PICKED A SERVEL, IT NEVER NEEDS FIXING!"

say local users of this famous
GAS
REFRIGERATOR

"Lucky—you bet we are!" agree America's two million other Servel-owning families. Especially today, with repair men so hard to get—they appreciate their Servel Gas Refrigerators.

Servel stays silent—gives no trouble... for a very good reason. It's different from all other automatic refrigerators—basically different...

It freezes with no moving parts

A tiny gas flame does all the work in Servel's simpler refrigerating system. That's why there's—

Nothing to wear

Nothing to cause noise

And that's also why families who've had their Servels for 8—10—12 years can still report, "Our Servel Gas Refrigerator is just as efficient, just as dependable, as the day we got it. And we've never spent a cent for repairs! Servel certainly does stay silent, last longer!"

Lots of people tell us they'd like to switch to silent, trouble-free Servel Gas Refrigerators today. But Servel, makers of the silent Gas Refrigerator, are 100% in war work. They're making a few refrigerators, but only for the Army and Navy. (Servel is the only refrigerator that can go where the fighting is hot.)

But, after the war, Servel will again be making refrigerators for you. Just as silent, just as trouble-free, and even more attractive. Your Gas Company will bring them to you, and all other Servel products. So plan for a permanently silent, longer-lasting refrigerator tomorrow. And save for it—in War Bonds and Stamps.

These men can tell you why the 7TH WAR LOAN is the BIGGEST yet!

YOU ARE being asked to lend more money than ever before—in the 7th War Loan.

These men can tell you why.

They can tell you of giant ships ready to slide down the ways this year.

They can tell you of a whole new air force in the building—huge new bombers and fast new jet-propelled planes coming off the lines by thousands.

They could show you why it is cheaper and quicker to give our Pacific Forces entirely new equipment sometimes—instead of shipping tanks and guns from Europe.

They can, in short, show you 101 ways in which your dollars are needed more than ever to bring America's might to its full strength—so that we may crush our foe the faster, make an end of killing, and bring our men back home.

Will you tell these men "I can't afford to buy my share"?

And your share isn't the bonds you can conveniently buy! You've got to match their sacrifices with YOUR dollars—you've got to lay it on the line to get them off the firing line!

Warren County's fighting men and women are counting on YOU to do the home front job—and Number One job now is to get our dollars into the fight. A big quota? You bet we've got a big quota—the biggest E Bond quota ever to meet. We can't meet it if we leave it to the other fellow. Every Bond — every EXTRA $18.75 Bond is needed and needed NOW.

So, before you say I can't afford another Bond, take another look at these pictures—and then see if you can't find a way to squeeze out another chunk of Victory in the form of another Bond!

Start Buying To Stop Their Dying!

The War Isn't Over...and Neither Is the 7th War Loan!
Your Bonds Are Needed To Meet the Quota!

GETS DECORATIONS AWARDED TO SON

Mrs. Mary Morgach, of Youngs-ville, has received from the War Department the Purple Heart and the Presidential Unit Citation awarded posthumously to her son,
Stephen, who was killed in action on June 12, 1944. It was also learned that while participating in the invasion of Normandy, he had been promoted from technical sergeant to second lieutenant.

(From Page One)
Total tonnage of the incendiary bombs dropped in the low-level attacks was not announced. The raids were part of the 21st bomber command's new program of going after smaller Japanese cities that harbor many small but important factories and thousands of "backyard" shops.

Fliers said they found all of Kagoshima brightly-lighted, including its naval anchorage, and ran into strong flak. The fire bombs sent blazes that sent smoke boiling up more than 12,000 feet and burned a "hole" in the overcast at 7,500 feet through which bright flames could be seen.

"I think we can write off Kagoshima, for the city is blazing right to the waterfront," said Lt.
George Mott, of East Tallahassee,
Ala., who piloted the last B-29
over the target.

Car Plunged Over Bank Onto Play Lot

Donald, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Brumagin, 109 Fifth avenue, east, escaped injury Saturday when a car he was in plunged over a high embankment down onto the Beatty playgrounds. The car with the child inside was left by Mrs. Brumagin as she shopped in the Irvine store. In some way the little fellow applied contact and the car started. Alarmed he jumped from it and the car continued on its way. Mounting the curb on the south side of the avenue it went over the high bank down onto the playgrounds where it came to rest against the boys lavatory building. The building was damaged to some extent but the car escaped serious injury, except to the fenders. The boy was unhurt.

One drunk was gathered into the fold of the police and another was escorted to his home which he was near when a call came for the officers.

The heater on an asphalt tank became noisy during the night and the police called Highway Supt. Lowe, who emerged in pajamas to quiet the machine.

Several dogs that were barking to the detriment of their neighbors rest were also silenced and one was escorted to the police station.

Make Award For Topping Bond Quota

Once again the employees of the Metzger-Wright Company have shown their salesmanship by topping their quota in War Bond Sales. Friday evening, just before five o'clock, William Yeager, Chairman of the County War Bond Sales, A. E. Kottcamp of the Warren Chamber of Commerce and Ben Kinnear, chairman of the Retailers Bond Sales presented them with the Mighty Seventh War Loan Banner for topping their quota of $60,000 to $100,000 making the total of sales up to Friday evening $70,975.

Mr. Yeager spoke of the splendid work that must have gone into the selling of these bonds as was shown by the number of "E" bonds sold by individuals. Especially by Miss Elizabeth Anderson who has sold 23, Mrs. Helen Brockway 22, Miss Harriett Chatley and Miss Theresa Smith both with 19 each, Nina Sittler 16, Pearl Johnson 15, and Ruth Woodin and Clara Carter 14 each. In the amount of Bonds sold, Mrs. Helen Brockway leads with a total of $9,625 with Miss Nina Sittler in second place with $3,675 and Miss Ruth Woodin Third with $2,250. Those who have sold over $1,000 includes Mrs. Mildred Carter, Miss Victoria Staaf, Miss Clara Dietrich, Mrs. Madeline Lyon, Miss Mary Eckardt, Mrs. Pearl Johnson, Mrs. Leota Clark, Miss Clara Weidert, and Mr. Claude Landers.

Each co-worker was given an individual quota of $500 to make during this drive and besides those mentioned above those who have made this quota are Miss Harriett Chatley, Mrs. Emily McCoy, Miss Clara Eckardt, Miss Clara Carter, Miss Mina Uhdey, Miss Matilda Eckardt, Mrs. Rena Hansen, Miss Betty Anderson, Mrs. Broderick, Mr. Owen Unangst, and Miss Martha Widung.

Instead of sitting back now and believing they have done their share, they have raised their quota to $100,000 with the hopes that they may even double their quota making their total $120,000.

pany, were accorded the rare honor of adoption into the Complanter Tribe of the Seneca Indian Nation. The ancient and colorful ceremony took place at the woodland lodge of Mr. L. M. Lilly, Bradford, Pa., oil producer, situated near Kinzua on Sugar Run, where a large group of out of town attendants at the A. I. R. A. meeting were entertained at an outdoor supper. A committee of about fifteen members of the Complanter Indians came from the nearby Complanter Indian Grant, attired in full regalia, richly decorated garments with traditional shell, beadwork and other ornamentation, and solemnly conducted the symbolic ceremonies, with appropriate pantomime, chants, and dances, finally conferring upon the newly adopted brothers Indian names. Captain Way's name, roughly translated means: "Man of the Big Forests." Mr. Logan's name translates to "Big Man in the Boat." This signal honor was conferred by the Seneca Indians in recognition of Captain Way's noteworthy efforts for the improvement of the Allegheny, the preservation of its beauties, and his recording of the history of the Allegheny Region; and in recognition of Harry A. Logan's efforts for the improvement of the River for navigation and his cooperation with their nation in its efforts to prevent the destruction of their treaty-protected lands, ancient burial grounds and homes by the possible erection of the proposed Pittsburgh water supply dam at Kinzua. This primitive ceremonial, rarely performed, was witnessed by visitors from Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York State, Kentucky, Missouri and West Virginia. The ancient songs and chants handed down from untold generations, the symbolic dances and the rhythm of the music of ceremonial drum, rattles and bells, as the ritual unfolded in this forest setting made an unforgettable impression on all present. More rare than a university honorary degree, this rite confers upon the adopted brothers ancient tribal rights and privileges, and life-long brotherhood.

The A. I. R. A. Annual Meeting was opened by Pres. Jos. Riessenman Jr. at 2 o'clock in the beautiful courtroom of the Warren Co. Court House. Greetings were extended visitors by Raymond W. Steber, Burgess of Warren; the Hon. Allison D. Wade, President Judge of the 37th Pa. Judicial District, Warren, and Eugene A. Logan, Warren, Pa., Vice Pres. Treas. and General Mgr. United Refining Co., Warren, Pa.; Pres. Elk Refining Co., Charleston, W. Va.; Pres. National Petroleum Association, and of the Petroleum Industry War Council; Maj. Wm. F. Scherwin, U. S. Engineer Office, Pittsburgh, Pa.; H. E. Anderson, Senior Engineer, U. S. Engineer Office, native of Tidoute, Pa.; Chas. E. Hodges, Managing Director, Charleston, W. Va., Chamber of Commerce; Andrew H. Hudson, projects Director, River and Harbor Improvement Assn., Cleveland, Ohio; H. C. Putnam, Warren, Pa., now president of A. I. R. A.; Walter G. Howe, Executive Secy., Olean, N. Y., Chamber of Commerce; T. Rees Tarn, naval architect, Pittsburgh; The Rev. Fr. Ireneaus Herscher, O.F.M., Librarian, St. Bonaventure College, Olean, N. Y.; Capt. Wm. B. Rodgers, Chairman Waterways Committee, Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and Pres. Tri-State Authority.

In the keynote speech, Congressman Leon Gavin, of Oil City, made a ringing challenge to the Allegheny Region to develop the river for navigation as an economic necessity and vitally important to the national defense.

Captain Donald Wright presented the over-all national interest to be served by the upper Allegheny as a navigable river completing the last great undeveloped link to join the inland waterways of the east and west from Gulf to Seaboard.

Mr. Harry A. Logan emphasized the vital economic necessity for cheap water transportation for the economic survival of the Allegheny Valley and its industrial development. Also the fallacy of destroying rich oil, gas and timber lands as well as towns and agricultural lands, by the erection of the proposed Pittsburgh water supply dam at Kinzua, which would also block river navigation up the river for all time.

Chief speaker of the day was Charles E. Hodges, managing Director, Charleston, W. Va., Chamber of Commerce, who told the fascinating story of the recent development of deep water navigation up the Kanawha River to Charleston, giving that rich industrial region outlet to the Ohio and the entire Mississippi system, and low cost transportation for an incredible tonnage of heavy chemicals, steel, coal, and finished products moving in and out of the area. Water transportation was one of the major contributing factors to Charleston's development as the chemical capital of the world.

Others participating in the deliberations of the A. I. R. A. meeting included: Walter R. Demmler, member City Council, Pittsburgh, Pa.; C. S. Fogle, oil and gas producer, Kinzua; W. N. Burt, Jr., Pres., National Barge Co., Pittsburgh; John W. Zenn, McKeesport industrialist and river pilot; W. W. Partlow, American Waterways Operators, Inc., representative at Pittsburgh; F. G. Banner, Jr., Executive Vice Pres. Elk Refining Co., Charleston, W. Va.; V. P. Charleston Chamber of Commerce; Frank R. Bell, director, Charleston Chamber of Commerce; Commander Ben I. Pattison, U. S. C. G. R., St. Louis, Mo., Dist. Marine Inspection officer in charge of 22 states; Merton Hatfield, Lt. Com. U. S. C. G. R., Pittsburgh, Guard; J. Mack Gamble, Clarion, Ohio, Waterways Journal correspondent; Charles Waters, Buffalo, N. Y., Dist. Engineer N. Y. State Public Works; G. E. Terry, Wall Rope Co., Pittsburgh; Fred Cole, Advertising Mgr., Dravo, Inc.

Representing the Muskingum

Watershed Conservancy District, New Philadelphia, Ohio were Bryce C. Browning, Secy.-Treas.; J. S. Gena, Chief Engineer; T. C. Schuler, Asst. Ch. Engineer; and Frank J. Crume, Safety Supervisor.

The Newspaper fraternity attending included: J. C. Bush, publisher Salamanca Inquirer; Matthew Weber, publisher-editor Salamanca Republican-Press; William A. Walker, publisher Warren Times-Mirror; H. J. Klinefelter, Editor Forest Republican, Tionesta.

Officers elected for the coming year include: Honorary Life President, Capt. Donald T. Wright, St. Louis, Mo.; President Emeritus, Joseph Riessenman, Jr., Franklin, Pa.; President, Harold C. Putnam, Warren, Pa.; Executive Vice Presidents, Capt. Frederick Way, Jr., Sewickley; Capt. John W. Zenn, McKeesport; Harry A. Logan, Warren; Secretary - Treasurer, Franklin R. Hoff, Warren, Pa.; Executive Committee (Active Officers and three others), Ben Kinnear, M. H. Deardorff and H. W. Conarro, of Warren, Pa.; Historian, Mrs. S. Kussart, Pittsburgh; Publicity Director, George A. Zerr, Pittsburgh.

Resident Vice Presidents: Coudersport, Pa. The Hon. Jas. S. Berger, Olean, N. Y., Walter Howe, Salamanca, N. Y., Charles E. Congdon, Bradford, Pa., L. M. Lilly, Corydon, Pa., Paul Duntley, Kinzua, Pa., G. H. Stephenson, Tidoute, Pa., Carl Grettenberger, Youngsville, Pa., Howard M. Kay, Tionesta, Pa., E. A. Childs, Oil City, S. Y. Ramage III, Franklin, Pa., Wayne Blakeley, Jr., Emlenton, Pa., H. J. Crawford, Arndt-New Kensington, M. F. Hoves, Tarentum, George D. Stuart, Pittsburgh, Pa., T. R. Tarn, McKeesport, John W. Zenn, Sewickley, Capt. Frederick Way, Jr.

Nominating Committee consisted of W. W. Partlow, Pittsburgh, Capt. Donald Wright, St. Louis, Mo., and Ben Kinnear, Warren, Pa. Letters were read from the Hon. Daniel A. Reed, of Olean, Congressman from the 45th Dist., N. Y., pledging his support for the objectives of the Association; W. DeWitt Manning of the Editorial Board of Frank Gannett's Rochester, N. Y. Democrat Chronicle, assuring the Association of Rochester's vital interest in a connection with the Allegheny upon the completion of canalization to Olean, thus connecting with the New York inland waterways system; and a telegram from the Seneca Nation of Indians, convened June 5th and 6th in regular session at Irving, N. Y., protesting against any proposed dam near Kinzua, Pa., the use of their tribal lands for flood control purposes being in direct violation of provisions and guarantees contained in the treaties of 1784-1789 and 1794 with the U. S. Government, quoting the resolution:

"Motion made by Chas. Contain, seconded by Leonard Redeye, authorizing the Executive Board of the Seneca Nation to file a formal protest to the war department opposing the proposed dam near Kinzua, Pa., which would violate the treaty rights of the people of the Seneca Nation of Indians, although a proposed navigable river is and would be favorable. Motion carried."

The communication being signed by Cornelius Seneca, president, Elmer Thompson, clerk of the Seneca Nation of Indians.

A Resolutions Committee composed of John W. Zenn, McKeesport, Capt. Frederick Way, Jr.,

Sewickley, and Elmer Roeder, Franklin, Pa., introduced a number of resolutions, which were duly adopted as follows:

A resolution felicitating the U. S. Engineers upon their 170th anniversary and emphasizing the belief of the A. I. R. A. that the Corps of Engineers be continued in charge of the river and harbor improvement and maintenance projects rather than under proposed so-called regional authorities.

A resolution extending the Association's congratulations to the U. S. Engineer Department and Pittsburgh, and to the U. S. Coast Guard, thru the Captain of the Port, Pittsburgh, who, working together in the existing emergency, have achieved noteworthy performance of duty.

A Resolution reiterating the established policy of the Association in opposition to construction across the main stream of the Allegheny of any flood control, power, or multipurpose dams as constituting a bar to proper extension of navigation facilities, and urging the U. S. Engineers to give favorable consideration to extension of the permanent 9-foot channel in the Allegheny River to Olean, N. Y., and recommend construction as soon as possible of sufficient locks and dams to that point, suggesting a connection be made thereafter between the improvement waterways of the Mississippi River System and the Seaboard through a short canal to Rochester or some other point on the New York system of waterways; and pledging the cooperation jointly of the A. I. R. A. and the Upper Allegheny River Improvement Association with the U. S. Engineers in the contemplated survey of the River to Olean in every way possible, with the purpose of acquainting the Engineers with the desire of the people of this section for an improved waterway essential to the economy and future industrial development of this region.

A resolution welcoming into the membership of the A. I. R. A., all present and future members of the affiliated Upper Allegheny River Improvement Association, and acknowledging the latter group's cooperation for attainment of common objectives, thanking the new affiliate and its officers for sponsoring and arranging for the annual meeting and the splendid welcome provided.

A resolution felicitating retiring president Jos. Riessenman Jr., for his efforts, and generous devotion of time, talent and finances to the Association and its interests.

A resolution petitioning the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company to retain the name ALLEGHENY for their township which has carried this name for fifteen of more years since it was constructed a new vessel, plying the Monongahela, Allegheny, Ohio and Mississippi rivers, becoming a familiar, well-regarded steamboat, doing honor to the name it carries, but which it has been rumored might be changed by that company.

A resolution expressing deep appreciation to the daily and weekly newspapers of Western New York and Western Pennsylvania who have so generously devoted large space in their news and editorial columns concerning the Allegheny River Improvement Association meeting, and the objectives it actively promotes; particularly to the Warren Times-Mirror, Warren, Pa., for its all-out efforts to publicize the meeting and the objectives of the Association.

Warren Day Sunday Planned At Celoron; Features Galore

Fred Gettman, impresario de luxe of fun and frolic at Celoron arrived at The Times-Mirror office this morning and before he left it had all been arranged that the annual Funfest of the Times-Mirror for Warren folk would be held for the 14th time, June 24. This "Warren Day" outing at Celoron Park has grown with each year and 1945's jollification promises to be a record breaker. The Celoron management will cooperate and the coupon which appears this week will give each Warrenite a little inside track on the fun.

Celoron park has been refurbished during the winter months and a whole lot of money has been spent to make it the finest resort of its kind on any inland lake. The new owner, who operates, a whole oodle of parks and has more rides than Carter has pills has installed several new rides, has built new wide promanades through the amusement zone and put in a new lighting system that makes the park light as day on the darkest night.

The ball room famous from one end of her to there has also been given a going over and it has been made highly attractive. Good music is featured at all times that the folks who like to dance can states congratulated the local newly formed Upper Allegheny River Association for their splendid welcome and fine arrangements as hosts to the ARIA annual meeting, and their manifestly determined efforts to accomplish the early realization of the objectives common to the AIRA and the new affiliate for the development of the Allegheny, our last great natural resource.

President of the Upper Allegheny Group Ben Kinnear and his local committee were felicitated upon his remarkably able job as organizer and the efficient preparations and arrangements of the many details related to a meeting of this size and importance, declaring this occasion destined to be looked back upon as an historic one for this region.

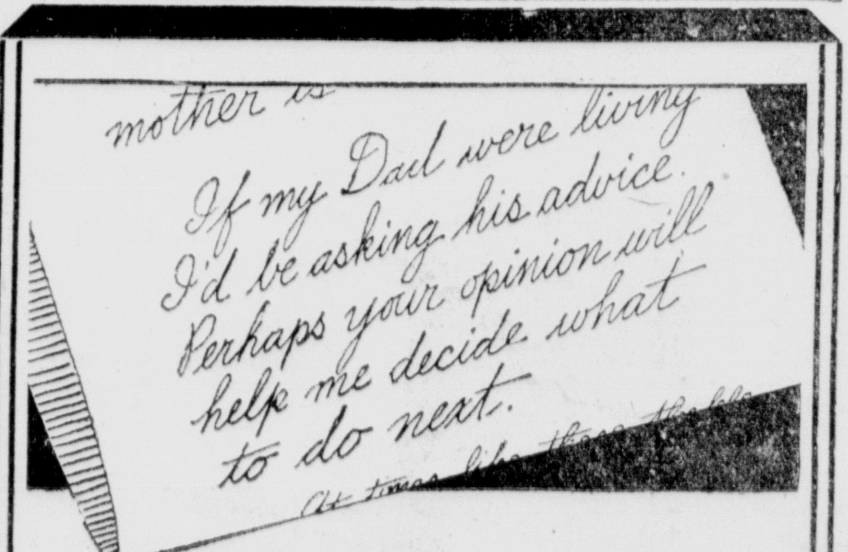

A group of visiting delegates reminded over Sunday to join in an inspection of portions of the oil and gas fields of the Kinzua and Sugar Run valleys, and the intensely interesting secondary recovery operations in the Bradford field, under the guidance of C. S. Fogle of Kinzua find their wish gratified in the most approved manner. Free attractions will hold the crowds spell bound as some top notch entertainers have been booked for the occasion and with the plethora of amusements arranged there should be a huge crowd present.

Coupon clipped should be the rage in Warren this week and the coupon holders can cash in on the fun and be as rich as Croesus in gaily next Sunday. Gettman who is as much a fixture at Celoron as the lake never makes any promises he can't keep and when he says that "only the weatherman can cut into the fun" you can believe him.
